

A 'Mixed Bag' Which Could Save Your Life

By BOB PETERSON
Bonnie Bennion is a Foster City wife and mother who heads the junior bowling program at the Bel Mateo Bowl in San Mateo.

John Williams is the retired head of the San Francisco Police Department crime lab.

Richard Markell is an employee of United Air Lines at San Francisco International Airport.

Kerry Cochran does free-lance photography and is a reserve San Mateo County Sheriff's Deputy.

Alan Wiel is a retired gunsmith and sporting goods store owner.

These people represent what is familiarly called "a mixed bag."

Dig a little deeper into that bag and you'll find that they also are happy users of citizen band two-way radios.

They are, in fact, all members of the Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team (REACT) on the Golden Gate Area, Inc., headquartered on San Bruno Mountain.

REACT is a totally volunteer civilian emergency radio service consisting of individuals such as these five who comprise teams throughout the country and use their own time and two-way radios to assist the public.

Both the U.S. and Canadian equivalent of the Federal Communications Commission have reserved Channel (frequency) 9 for emergency messages and motorist assistance.

It generally takes a crisis of one sort or another before the value of some dedicated individuals in society are recognized.

Although one man's emergency needs may not seem to be another's concern, one inconvenience many of us share is a lack of information as to which gas stations are open on Sundays to supply the gas-guzzling needs of our Detroit-mobiles.

Like every other vital communication situation they encounter, this problem has spurred the Golden Gate REACT group to provide a public service listing of open stations.

Current discussion among state officials to use the Oregon plan of filling gas tanks according to digits on license plates may, however, soon make this REACT service unnecessary.

But until, and if, that comes about, REACT will continue to offer information on what stations are open. Just call 755-9554 if you live north of Redwood City and 286-1338 if you live in Redwood City and south.

At the radio tower control base on San Bruno Mountain the five members stressed that the objective of REACT is to assist in all forms of local emergencies.

This is done by furnishing instant radio to radio, radio to telephone or telephone to radio communications.

"The information on gas station openings," said Wiel, "is just a sideline." All REACT activities are done in cooperation with proper authorities and official agencies, he added.

The Golden Gate Area REACT team, like all REACT teams throughout the country, is sponsored by General Motors, as a safety and community service program.

There are about 25 active members, and many more associate members, of the Golden Gate group. The associate members pay less dues, but also don't have access to the control station radio board.

The station is a former military site which the group converted to its headquarters. Before they moved to the site, headquarters was in a house.

Wiel, the team's membership officer, became official tour guide. "This is what you'll see in most (REACT members') cars," he said, pointing to a walkie talkie, a

Colma Demotes Chief of Police Ray Ottoboni

Raymond Ottoboni, police chief of the cemetery town of Colma for the past three years, was demoted to police officer by the City Council following a secret meeting Thursday.

Ottoboni, whose father is former mayor and currently a councilman in Colma, did not receive any cutbacks in salary or allowances in the demotion.

The news of the younger Ottoboni's removal as head of Colma's one-man police department came shortly before a scheduled public meeting on renewal of a police protection contract with Broadmoor officials.

Councilman Earl Taylor was appointed acting police chief pending selection of a replacement.

Broadmoor provides police patrols of Colma under an annual contract for nights and weekends. This contract is now under consideration for renewal.

But Broadmoor's three police commissioners, at the urging of Broadmoor Chief of Police Raymond Savage, presented three alternatives to Colma.

Plan One called for a 24-hour police patrol of Colma at a cost of $60,000 a year. This would have removed Ottoboni entirely from the department.

Plan two called for $48,000 annually and replacement of the chief "with someone we and other police chiefs around the county can work with," Savage explained.

Plan Three was the most drastic. It called for cancelling the contract with Colma altogether.

Colma tentatively accepted Plan Two at the Broadmoor meeting later Thursday.

A special representative group from both sides will meet to hammer out financial details of the plan.

Broadmoor is now getting some $32,000 per year for Colma police protection. This is based on a special three-fourths of one per cent ad valorem tax paid by Colma residents, it was understood.

Commissioner John F. McCloskey Jr. said Colma was getting "one heck of a bargain" in the $48,000 proposition, but agreed to bargain with them on this price.

Councilman Ottoboni, after the meeting, said his son had stepped down voluntarily to avoid further disagreements between the two cities on police protection.

Broadmoor To Dedicate Memorial

Broadmoor Village, an unincorporated San Mateo County community near Daly City, at 2 p.m. Sunday, will dedicate a plaque in memoriam to Charles Manning, a Broadmoor policeman killed in the line of duty in January, 1964.

The plaque will be unveiled by Manning's widow, Lillian, and their daughter, Lisa, at the Broadmoor Property Owners Association building at 87th and Eighty-seventh and Washington Streets, Colma.

Peter MacMillan, BPOA president, said several area police departments, including Broadmoor Chief Ray Savage and San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald, will be represented at the ceremony.

The Westmont High School Music Department's Swing Choir, led by student director Nancy Howard, will sing and a reception will follow.

Manning was 43 when he was slain — a bullet near his heart and five in his back, according to news stories, which reported that Manning had surprised a 19-year-old

The officer, whose daughter was nine at the time, died radioing for help from his patrol car shortly before midnight on January 6, 1964 on Hillside Boulevard.

He had been a Broadmoor Police Protection District officer nine years.

SF Representatives Fail To Show for Jail Session

The future of San Francisco's jail near San Bruno remains an enigma, despite an attempt Monday by Congressman Leo Ryan to pursue the issue of whether or not that facility ought to be abandoned.

Ryan referred to the 9:30 a.m. session in the Federal Building in San Francisco as "only half a meeting."

The reference was to the fact there was no one present from the San Francisco mayor's office, nor the city's Board of Supervisors. Neither was there representation from Sheriff Richard Hongisto's office. All had been invited.

It was pointed out that Hongisto was in Southern California attending a two-week training course. No other

The gas shortage which has played havoc with motorists could jeopardize the South San Francisco High School athletic program, it was learned at Monday night's meeting of the Board of Trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District.

An attempt was made to change the type of transportation used to get teams to and from non-league athletic games.

It was recommended that the district provide 12-passenger station wagons and allow parents and coaches to transport students in private cars if proper insurance procedure is followed. It was also suggested that an attempt be made to schedule more non-league games at home.

Joseph Smith, associate superintendent, noted that the station wagons would not be available for team use. "It's prime time," he said. "This is when we use the wagons to take the educationally handicapped children from school."

Thomas Gaffney, principal of South San Francisco High School, said, "As it stands now, this is not the proposal we agreed on."

He said, "It would not meet our current needs for league games. We simply would not be able to field a team."

team members and many of the other spring teams are nearly as large. "Rounding up parents to drive these kids would just be impossible," Gaffney said.

"We would also rather keep the schedule we have than change it," he added. "In the past we have had to go to chartered buses. I don't understand why we can't do that now," he said.

Smith answered, "The funds provided for the transportation budget have been used in advance for increased gas prices. They have gone from 22 cents to 34 cents to about 39.9 cents a gallon, he said."

"Many charter buses cannot be used at all because of this," he said.

The second item recommended by the administration to alleviate the problem also met with disapproval. It would allow students who are 18 years and over to drive their own cars, transporting students to the non-league games, provided they comply with the insurance requirements.

"We are stepping on dangerous ground to allow adult students to drive," said Trustee John Dillon.

Gaffney explained that although the district would still be responsible, it would be liable only secondarily.

Smith insisted that 18-year-olds are as adult as their parents are to transport people to games, as long as they meet the requirements, as long as they had proof of insurance on file prior to the first field trip."

Dillon stood fast to his contention that the second item be allowed only in extreme cases and made a motion to accept the first recommendation requiring parents and coaches to do the driving.

The vote was 4-1 against Dillon's motion and was followed by a closer look at the situation presented by the track coach.

"It would create such a problem for the coaches to act as transportation coordinators and would totally burden the program," he said.

"We can't schedule any practice games at school because of the fire we had in the equipment shed. It destroyed everything."

"We have provided a fantastic program in the past," he said, "but we may have to cut our season in half."

"It would be a great disservice to have the kids in a position where they will no longer be able to compete and travel to other schools," he added.

It was agreed that charter buses would be used, as gas is available. Dillon made a motion to appropriate $5,000 from the general fund for the purpose of transporting teams to non-league games, resulting in a 5-0 vote in favor of the action.

Cable TV System Rapped; 'Bug' Extermination Set

Daly City's much-criticized cable television system is expected to concentrate its efforts on exterminating "bugs" in its east side operations in the coming month.

Monday night, during a lengthy public hearing on the issue, councilman Bernard J. Lycett suggested the Denver-based Vista Grande Cable Company put its entire four man maintenance staff to work clearing up complaints in the Hillside-Market street area "where most of the complaints originate."

Lycett noted that the company is not yet hooking up subscribers in the Westlake area, therefore there are no complaints.

Company manager Spence Woods agreed the plan "would help a great deal."

At the recommendation of City Manager David Rowe and City attorney Albert Polonsky, the four members of the council agreed to a continuation of the public hearing until March 25 in order to give Rowe sufficient time to prepare a staff recommendation on the matter.

This continuation would also permit the council to see if the cable company was proceeding with its part of the franchise agreement.

An overflow crowd packed the Daly City Council Chambers for the public hearing. Those speaking were highly critical of the company, owned by Telecommunications Inc., of Denver, Colo.

Complaints voiced by a number of persons ranged from poor reception, poor response, sudden interruptions in the line, to what they called a "credibility gap" in communications between company management and citizens.

This "credibility gap" exists because of an "incompetent management situation," according to attorney Charles Garry of 482 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

Garry, a noted criminal lawyer, charged the company with engaging in a "dichotomy of vacillating."

But Garry, and other speakers didn't think the company should lose their city franchise. Rather they should spruce up their operation and give the city a first class system, Garry felt.

"There is a place for cable television (in Daly City)," Garry said.

At the outset of the meeting, councilman Paul Hupf excused himself from participating in the hearing, pointing out he once represented the company and had purchased stock in the company for his wife.

"She still owns that stock," Hupf said.

Jefferson Elementary School District trustee Mrs. Beverly Forrester charged the company had crossed school property (at John F. Kennedy School) to service private subscribers in Colma without obtaining a revocable easement from the JESD Board.

Troy Lee, district manager for the Vista Grande Cable, interrupted Mrs. Forrester by explaining his offices had written the

JESD Trustees Reject Skiing Honeymoon Plea

Personnel matters dominated the lengthy meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School Board Wednesday night.

A teacher at the Colma K-6 School, Patsy Perring, was denied permission by the school board to go on a skiing honeymoon with her husband.

Mrs. Perry was married last October, it was learned.

After the board denied her request, Mrs. Perring asked what would happen if she just took off. She was told by Supt. Keith Breon it would likely be a breach of contract and she would probably be dismissed.

Asked why she had not taken advantage of the December holidays to go on her honeymoon, Mrs. Perring allegedly said the snow was not good for skiing then.

Another personnel case, this one involving the hiring of David Peters for a restricted position on an indefinite basis, received widespread comment from trustees and administration.

Whether Peters could be hired for the job of teacher aid-driver without taking a test, was finally left to the opinion of the San Mateo County District Attorney's Office — the district's legal counsel.

Peters was hired on a provisional basis for a six months period, however, he remained in the slot for more than a year.

Some trustees felt Peters should get the job without the necessary testing "because an injustice had been done."

Peters said he would have taken the test, except no one told him about it until after it was all over.

Mrs. Dorothy Adams, chairman of the school board, and Trustee James Cranna felt the issue should be left to the Personnel Commission for determination.

The job is in the specially funded category.

Cranna said he believes the district's three-member Personnel Commission should review the case before any hiring is done.

Mrs. Adams agreed.

However, Trustees David

Schumacher Spends Most in DC So Far

Biggest spender in the current Daly City municipal election campaign to date is William J. Schumacher, who is trying to win a seat on the City Council in the March 5 election.

Schumacher so far has spent $6,964.77, principally on campaign buttons ($450); signs ($2,464.25), and brochures, ($2,555.00).

According to the financial disclosure statement filed by the candidate, who was formerly a trustee with the Jefferson Elementary School District and is now a practicing attorney in Daly City, he has received some $4,260 from various sources, including $3,210.75 in proceeds from a campaign kick-off party.

All six candidates in the race filed their disclosure statements, under the law, as of Feb. 5.

Next highest amount was spent by Daly City councilman Bernard J. "Bud" Lycett who listed some $2,585 in expenses and received $3,020 from various contributors.

The amount is some $4,400 less than that spent by challenger Schumacher.

The former mayor and veteran councilman said his major expenses to date have been for signs and wood to construct signs.

McRobert L. "Mac" Stewart, running for his second term on the council, received $3,540 in cash and material contributions thus far, and spent $436.75, according to the statement.

Again, signs were the main expense.

Also seeking to retain his seat on the City Council is Victor G. Kyriakis who explanations were offered. "These offices said they would have someone here," said Ryan. "That's part of the problem. The absence of San Francisco officials seriously limits the function of this meeting."

Ryan said he would write to Mayor Joseph Alioto to set up another meeting as soon as possible and request that "those people who did not show an interest" in the Monday meeting be sure to attend.

The congressman said he hoped to learn if San Francisco officials would be amenable to combining a planned federal facility in downtown San Francisco with a city-county jail, thereby eliminating the need for the San Bruno jail. This would take cooperation from all levels of government, local, state and federal.

According to Fred R. Dickson Jr., regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, $6 million has been appropriated by Congress for a new detention center for pre-trial federal prisoners at the intersection of Turk and Larkin in San Francisco.

"If we don't get going with this San Francisco facility, we will find that $6 million in Phoenix, Memphis or somewhere else," said Dickson. A 180-bed facility is planned in San Francisco.

Ed Rodriguez, who is with the Governmental Services Administration as project director for the Bureau of Prisons and in charge of the San Francisco project, said presently the San Francisco Board of Supervisors "disagree on the site."

Rodriguez said that because of no definite consensus the status of the planned new San Francisco facility is only in the "schematic design" stage.

Ryan indicated that such being the case, the project has not passed the stage where plans for an additional complex couldn't be worked in.

"San Bruno jail has been a problem for North San Mateo County for at least 20 years," said Ryan. "It is in many ways an anachronism. It should't even be there."

"It's a shame to spend another dime (a sewer system project costing some $500,000 is in progress at the jail to meet Environmental Protection Agency requirements) if there's a plan now to create additional prison facilities," said Ryan.

"Something has got to change. It might as well be right now," said the congressman. "I will help mount the battle against any further extension that (San Bruno) area."

Only recently the jail near San Bruno has been declared unsafe by the State Fire Marshal and the San Francisco County Grand Jury.

San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Chairwoman Jean Fassler said she was "not critical" of San Francisco officials, because "I recognize they are trying to do something to eliminate some of the problems," she said it was necessary to "get the elected officials together" before any headway could be made.

According to Mrs. Fassler, she has met and will continue to meet with her counterpart on the San Francisco Board of Supervisors "to talk about our mutual problems." She said in the most recent meeting she had with San Francisco Supervisor Diane Feinstein the jail issue was not discussed.

Mrs. Fassler indicated also that if the San Francisco supervisors are not happy with the proposed Turk and Larkin location for the new facility this fact might give "new thrust" to discuss a combined facility at a different San Francisco location.

Parker and Mrs. Beverly Forrester, along with Breon, disagreed.

The deadlock was finally resolved when it was agreed to leave the hiring method concerning Peters up to the district attorney.

Mrs. Adams said she will "explain my position on this matter" to the district attorney before he offers any opinion. And Mrs. Adams argues persons hired under these specially funded programs should reside in the district.

Peters is a resident of Brisbane.

A third personnel matter, this one involving a bookkeeper in the district's business office, Edanna Stein, was referred back to the Personnel Commission for action.

Mrs. Stein has been working outside her classification in the accounting department.

She had assumed the position of accountant-office manager left vacant by a recent retirement.

It was felt by the district administration that she should receive half of the salary range of the business manager's post and the other half in her own category of bookkeeper.

A standard of conduct for students riding Greyhound school buses under contract to the district is being drafted, according to Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Adams said "something has to be done" to protect both bus drivers and children passengers.

She said recently a bus passed her on the street with most of the children hanging halfway out the windows.

"I want the district to establish a standard of conduct on buses and then I want to determine how far the (Greyhound) company, their drivers and the union will go toward enforcing those standards.

"As of right now, if we can't get them to do something, we're going to have to put monitors on buses," Mrs. Adams said.

The chairwoman also asked that the administration conduct an appraisal of the Vista Grande Cable Company matter in regards to obtaining a written agreement between the district and cable company on a revocable easement behind the John F. Kennedy School.

A television cable has been laid on a section of school ground behind the school and a roadway there is the only means the CATV company has of maintaining this line which supplies several hundred homes in the Brisbane area, Mrs. Adams said.

"I'm afraid one of these days a child will be hit by a cable television truck going along this road to do maintenance on the line," she said.

The road itself should be completed, Mrs. Adams said.

"Right now, it (the road) is just lying there half dead," she said.

school district last August 27, and had not, as yet, received a response from school superintendent Keith Breon.

Woods also said there had been no response to his recent letter to Breon regarding a meeting between the district and cable company to discuss the issue.

The cable allegedly laid across school property was installed before the TCI organization took over from the previous Vista Grande owners, it was noted.

The company's biggest single problem is in the system's amplifiers, according to Woods.

These amplifiers are now in the process of being modified and reinstalled as soon as possible. A small converter box installed on the set itself is also in the process of being changed, Woods said.

Once this is done, Woods and other company officials say the system will be improved.

Meanwhile, eight former employees of the company, fired during a dispute last fall, supported Garry in his determination that the company should not lose its franchise.

Representing the former employees at the hearing was Yemen Chung, Vista Grande's ousted Daly City manager.

Sole Truck Bid Wins Contract

South San Francisco City Councilmen Monday night approved a $150,255.89 bid for a 90-foot elevating platform truck, despite protest over its being the sole bid.

The successful bidder was Calavar Corp. of Santa Fe Springs, Calif., a subsidiary of the Seagraves Company.

Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner told Mayor Warren Steinkamp the Calavar Corp. was the only firm that could make the particular truck with all the features he wanted.

The chief said he particularly had invited three firms to bid; one had too large a backlog and another one just was not interested. He even invited firms to bid their own special vehicles, but none did, he said.

South San Francisco's new truck will have a boom with a vertical reach of 90 feet, and a horizontal reach of 58 feet. Yet, it will have a length of only 38 feet, thus making it more maneuverable in South San Francisco's narrow hillside streets.

It will replace a 20-year-old aerial truck, which will be kept on for reserve for at least 10 to 15 years. That truck is being outfitted with a new engine this year.

Basic price for the new truck is $129,873, compared to the $130,000 estimated. However, $13,227.85 in options, plus $7,155.04 in sales tax brings the total up to $150,255.89.

Councilman William Borba urged that the council ask for new bids, which has been done in the past when only one bid was made. He also urged that the cost of the truck be compared with that paid for trucks in surrounding cities.

large reflector, flashlight and flares.

He said the group's main functions include reporting on accidents, fires, helping stalled vehicles or "giving directions to people who want to find their way around."

Unlike the long-range communication of the "ham" radio operator, the citizen-band operator provides the immediate short-range communication necessary in an emergency, said Wiel.

A trophy case contains proud evidence of the group's contributions. There are certificates of merit and service awards from such organizations as the March of Dimes for when REACT teams aided in "walk-a-thons."

On one plaque in the trophy case are the names "in memory" of deceased active members.

The REACT team is set up with the aim of being operational on a 24-hour-a-day, 7-day-a-week basis.

Mrs. Bennion, the group's public relations officer, cautions "for people who say 'I called REACT and nobody was there,' that 'we are all volunteers and put in what time we can. But we do have a private life."

During the month of October, 1973, the Golden Gate area team aided in 53 accident calls, 128 stalled auto calls, six reports of fire, 14 tow-service requests, 91 requests for information and 60 calls listed as "miscellaneous," such as for dead dogs.

These calls, incidentally, came directly to the headquarters station. Many others were undoubtedly taken individually by active or associate members from their cars or homes.

The group speaks proudly of a successful recent Coast Guard rescue effort in which the Coast Guard sought and used the REACT communications network.

Every call coming into the headquarters is logged. This day Markell was monitoring the radio panel. He is a trainee (by now undoubtedly has been made an active member) who was seeking the required "board time."

Why get involved? "I'd just like to help out any way I can in an emergency or distress," said the man whose qualified to taxi aircraft. He said aircraft radio experience and the type of radio activity REACT does are different approaches to communications.

"I've always been interested in radios," explained Wiel. "I bought a set, and sitting home I answered a distress call. That was it."

Wiel said his wife "thinks it's noisy," but added that "she admits there's merit to it" whenever REACT supplies necessary emergency information.

Williams said he just "wandered up here one day."

received between Jan. 1 and Feb. 5 some $1,490 in cash and $675 in material contributions from various sources.

Kyriakis has thus far spent $2,365.96.

Challenger Lawrence Dale Murray, a San Francisco Law School student, stated he received $970.67 from contributors and spent that amount on campaign signs and literature.

The least amount spent by any candidate, according to the statement, is by the Rev. Raymond Howard who received $807.72 and spent $422.72.

The small bayside city of Brisbane, accustomed to turmoil in its 13 years as an incorporated city, is today facing yet another council recall — the second in four months.

This time the target of a recall vote is Mayor Salvatore Guardino, a local physician, who has been on the council for the past six years.

Ira Romriell, of 665 Sierra Point Road, is pushing the recall, it was learned. After meeting all legal steps in presenting the petition of intention, Romriell will have 60 days to circulate the petition among those residents who voted in the last municipal elections.

Only last fall, three councilmen — Jesse C. Salmon, Julius Stern and William Lawrence — were ousted in a recall vote.

Later, a special election was held. Out of a field of 11 candidates, Mrs. Anja Miller, Arthur "Art" Montenegro, and Dr. Paul Goercke were elected to the council for varying terms.

SSF Council Vote

Seniors Get New Center

The South San Francisco City Council Friday voted to lease the former Bank of America building on Grand and Linden Avenues for a senior citizens center.

Councilmen rejected the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Commission — which met the previous night — to buy the building for $130,000. Instead, it voted to lease it for $19,920 per year, plus taxes which come to $4,375 last year.

The bank building — a landmark in downtown South San Francisco — had stood vacant for almost three years since the Bank of America moved into a modern building with drive-in facilities. It was this fact that moved the council not to buy the building; it feared that it would be unable to sell it when that time came.

James Morton, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission, had recommended purchase because it would be close to five years before new facilities would be made available to the senior citizens and other recreation programs.

The senior citizens, who met Thursday, voted 59-2 in favor of moving into the bank building. They had been meeting for many years at the Magnolia Recreation Center. The City Council had, without warning, voted to close down that center at a special meeting last week.

The bank building will require extensive interior remodeling. It was described by City Manager Ed Alario as a "shell." The main floor of the building is 5,750 square feet, with 2,100 square feet in the mezzanine. No plans for use of the mezzanine were formulated.

Only one possible hitch remains before the remodeling can begin. At the insistence of Councilman William Borba, a traffic study will be made of the area to measure and the effect of the senior citizens meeting would make upon the area.

Borba expressed fear that the senior citizens would produce traffic congestion in an area that is already congested. He charged that already there is no place for lunch-time patrons to park in the downtown area.

He asked a number of searching questions about traffic problems, charging that parking had always seemed crowded at the Magnolia Center. Representatives of the senior citizens told him that, on a normal day, 12 to 15 cars are parked on special days, no more than 20.

The group meets 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

May Try Oregon Plan

A spokesman for San Mateo County service station dealers said that his group is seeking to implement the Oregon system of providing gasoline on alternate days for drivers of cars with odd and even license plate numbers.

Russ Young of Redwood City said today that the dealers are trying to formulate such a program for this county and the entire state by March 1 or sooner.

Santa Clara County owners have already adopted the Oregon system.

Young said, "This is the only way to protect the consumer in all this."

Young added that he is opposed to a total shutdown of stations as a protest directed at the federal government.

Coastal Protection Policies Advanced

A set of 12 policies, to protect the continental shelf off the California Coast, was presented by oceanographer Ruth Andresen, at Skyline College Wednesday night.

The policies were proposed as part of the first element of a coastal plan to be drawn up by the California Coastal Commission. There will be 13 elements to the plan: marine resources is the first of them.

The policies were summarized in an extensive technical report "Life in the Sea," authored by Mrs. Andresen and the staff of the Central Coast Regional Commission.

Celia Von Der Muhl criticized the policies as not being decisive enough, and containing too many qualifying phrases.

A number of persons from Pacifica cited the lack of inclusion of San Pedro Creek and Pedro Beach in the report.

Mrs. Andresen promised to remedy the lacks.

The first policy would provide that all remaining coastal wetlands and estuaries should be preserved to the maximum extent feasible. New marshes should be created wherever possible except where they would significantly reduce the open water area of an enclosed body of water or adversely affect water circulation.

Nine areas were named as "considered by the commission to be of significant environmental importance" so as to preclude any development that is adverse to the environment. These include James V. Fitzgerald Marine Preserve, Pescadero Creek and Marsh and Ano Nuevo Marine Reserve and Creek.

Other areas where proposed development shall be carefully weighed for its public benefit include: Montara Beach to Pillar Point, San Gregorio Beach and Creek, Butano Creek, Moss Beach, Half Moon Bay, San Pedro Point (in Pacifica), Frenchman's Creek, Tunitas Creek and Beach.

Other policies presented Wednesday night include:

—Landfill, diking and dredging operations in wetlands and estuaries should be prohibited unless they are necessary for maintaining water circulation and reducing sedimentation — or absolutely necessary to the public welfare as established in a subsequent plan element.

—Protection and enhancement of the productivity of the coastal wetlands and estuaries that depend upon fresh water should be accomplished by three measures. Highest priority for financing should go to improving sewer flow into such estuaries, rather than improving ocean discharges. Development in areas upstream from fresh water discharges into estuaries should be carefully controlled. Damming or diversion of fresh water sources into estuaries should be banned, unless found to have an overriding public interest.

—Adequate berthing facilities should be provided for commercial fishing boats.

—California should continue to pursue working relationships with fisheries management in adjacent states.

—Maricultural (sea food farming) activities should be permitted only where they would not cut off water access to the public.

—Regional water quality control boards should be able to ban all development if it does not meet WQCB standards for getting a discharge permit. Developments that would harm water quality in areas of special environmental value should not be approved unless measures are taken to minimize damage to the water area.

—Water used for cooling in power and industrial plants should be drawn from deep, cooler offshore waters where there is less life in the water. Warmed water should be discharged into the sea only at locations where strong currents are present to insure the maximum dispersal of the heated water. If the heated water harms kelp beds then the discharger must help grow kelp elsewhere.

—Spoils from dredging should not be dumped into the ocean near kelp beds, as kelp cannot grow in muddy water.

—The bottom mud, in dredging operations, should first be treated for toxicity. Spoils from layers containing the poisonous material should be disposed of on land.

—No recreational or educational use of marshes or tide pools that would be excess should be allowed. Increased access should be provided for Scuba divers so that overuse of the few accessible areas can be reduced.

—Some marine and coastal habitats should be set aside as scientific and educational reserves.

Mrs. Andresen said numerous threats face the coast today, such as pollution and dredging. Kelp beds, a major source of fish food, are decreasing, she said.

The effects of poisons, magnified when a larger fish eats a smaller one, ultimately reaches man, Mrs. Andresen warned.

"Man must learn to co-exist with his environment," she insisted. "And that takes a great deal of planning."

In answer to questions by Kitty Bouly-Wilson, of Pedro Point Mrs. Andresen pointed out that school classes represent a major threat to tide pools.

"We call them the bucket brigades," she said.

They take home the delicate creatures in the tide pools, which then soon die. Such school activities are now illegal, however, she added.

Ken Skellinger, who heads the 250-member Sierra Club

Scuba Divers, complained that under the proposed policies, environmentalists, not developers, must prove that a project will damage the environment.

"The burden of proof should fall on the developer to prove that his project is safe," he declared.

Pacifica City Planner Jim Miller called Mrs. Andresen's attention to the danger of storm sewer systems, which continuously pour petroleum wastes and other pollutants into the ocean.

Coast Unit Criticized

The honeymoon is over for the state's year-old Coastal Zone Conservation Commissions, which environmentalists worked hard to have approved by the voters as Prop. 20 in 1972.

So said Mrs. Janet Adams of Woodside Wednesday outside a state CZCC meeting in Burlingame.

Mrs. Adams, chairman of the California Coastal Alliance, said her group was "very disenchanted" with the procedures of the six regional commissions and the state commission because they have approved 97 per cent of the applications coming before them in 1973.

That's more than the voters had expected when they okayed Prop. 20, but since then the commissions have "repeatedly surrendered" to developers wanting to build within the CZCC jurisdictions 1,000 yards in from the waterline, Mrs. Adams said.

Sorority Sees Slide Program

Ki Lambda Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Pacifica held its Jan. 22 meeting at the home of hostess Ethel Chandler, with Shirlee Gibbs serving as co-hostess.

Ruth Mills, program chairman for the evening, introduced as her special guest speaker, Carl McCarthy, the husband of Pacifica's former mayor, who displayed night and day aerial photographic slide views of the encampment sites along the route taken by Captain Gaspar De Portola and his overland expedition, which resulted in the accidental but significant discovery of San Francisco Bay sighted from Sweeney Ridge in Pacifica.

Ervin Committee Should End Work

GO SAM GO

Sam Sam.
Avuncular man.
Ran
A glittering show.
Flim flam.
Aroma of ham.
What
An imbroglio!
Whoa Whoa!
Now he should go.
Then
He won't overreach.
Be it known
The House alone
Has
Power to impeach.

During the past year this column has disagreed with those who thought the Senate Watergate hearings should and could be stopped. My belief was that the President's forces should have demanded the right of cross examination. This claim would have had a much better chance of success, and cross examination would have radically changed the effect of at least some of the testimony before the committee.

The attack was mounted against the committee itself, and, as predicted here last spring, the assault failed. The result is that we have seen Watergate through a narrow and distorted window, the witnesses never having been subjected to forceful cross examination. Now, the issue has changed. Last week the claim of the Watergate Committee to practical legitimacy was shown away. By an overwhelming vote (410 to 4) the House of Representatives formally ratified the impeachment inquiry of its Judiciary Committee, and vested the committee with broad subpoena power. This formal step falls into place as a part of the constitutional process of impeachment and places investigation of the President where it belongs.

The Senate committee's legal foundation has been the traditional power of Congress to conduct investigations and hold hearings for the purpose of studying and adopting legislation. As the hearings went on the veneer of constitutional purpose wore thin. Despite occasional references to legislation, it became plain that the committee was big game hunting, and that its ultimate quarry was the President.

Until last week the activity on the Senate side could be justified. The Ervin committee was operating in a vacuum — the House appeared to have no stomach for the investigation inherent in its constitutional obligation, and even after the Rindone committee began work the full House avoided the main issue. The Senate hearings were the "only game in town."

With House action, the Ervin committee is an extra, unneeded, and meddlesome appendage. More hearings risk prejudice to the rights of defendants. The glare of publicity before the Senate circus could well bollix serious work of several grand juries. The courts have recently limited the committee's subpoena power, leaving an impression that the process initiated by the House will be treated more favorably.

By continuing, the committee members could now become tangled in conflicting obligations. For should the House ever vote an impeachment, the Senators, like it or not, will have to sit in judgment on the charges brought against the President.

While the judiciousness of the Senate may fall far short of the courts, the public is entitled to expect a reasonable standard of decorum and fairness in any impeachment trial. This serious Senatorial responsibility far outweighs any vested interest of Senator Ervin, Counsel Dash, and the other members of the committee. Their time for publicity and attention is now past.

Instead of hanging around like the perennial alumnus who can't realize college days are over, the Ervin committee should close its work. Its job now should be the preparation of legislation to cure the nation's political ills. More hearings, and the making of reports that allocate guilt or render conclusions as to the evidence are now totally out of place.

While the Senate Watergate Committee served a useful function in 1973, in 1974 its role has been properly preempted by others. The entire panel of Senators, plus counsel and staff should quietly retire to working quarters to draft new laws. Whether Senators Ervin, Baker, Gurney, Montoya, etc., etc. have the interest and capacity for this kind of hard, grubby, dull, useful and essential work remains to be seen.

Faulty Furnace Causes Blaze

Three Pacifica residents escaped possible death that could have been caused by an allegedly faulty furnace Feb. 3, fire officials said.

According to officials a family was moving into a home at 583 Manor Drive Feb. 2.

Authorities said a grandmother, Mrs. Julia Duran, 68, and her grandsons, Louis Gomez, 18, and Ernest, 12, had gone to bed in the new home.

The older Gomez, officials said, later reported that at about 2 a.m. Sunday, he awoke and felt drowsy. He noticed that his brother was restless in bed.

The youth told authorities that he opened a bedroom window, but that didn't seem to help. Then, according to officials, the youth went to turn down the furnace and nearly passed out on the floor. He walked to a second window and opened that, authorities said, adding that it was probably these actions which saved the persons' lives.

Later in the morning, the father of the two boys arrived. He found his sons still in bed, but drowsy. The grandmother was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, for treatment for gas inhalation, hospital officials said.

Tormey in Race For Gregorio Seat

Attorney James R. Tormey today launched a surprise campaign to wrestle the state senate seat away from incumbent Arlen Gregorio in the reapportioned 10th District.

Tormey, a republican, faces a primary fight against Donald Spicer of Palo Alto. The district, which incorporates most of San Mateo County, also includes Palo Alto, Sunnyvale and Mountain View.

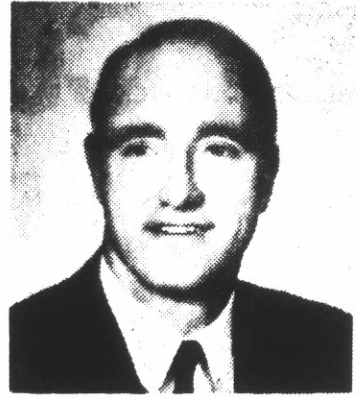

Tormey has been a member of the San Mateo Community College District for nearly three years, unseating incumbent Elio Fontants.

Promising a vigorous campaign, Tormey said, "I have never claimed to have all the answers, but we all have many questions, and my record establishes that I know how to ask questions about your concerns and keep asking them, until I get you answers. My record also indicates that I know how to work with other people, though we might not always be of the same persuasion, to reach commonly desired results."

A Frank Meeting With North County Press

Moscone Lays Groundwork for Re-election

SEN. GEORGE MOSCONE LISTENS
He called Reagan "a fraud"

Goodwill was the name of the game.

Laying groundwork for future representation is another way of describing the visit of State Senator George Moscone to Northern San Mateo County Friday.

Moscone, who is seeking re-election (but election for the first time in San Mateo County) to the new Sixth Senatorial District, broke bread with the county's journalists at Russo's Distillery in San Bruno.

Prior to the informational press luncheon, Moscone visited San Bruno City Hall for a brief meeting with Mayor Margaret Kozkowski, herself seeking re-election, about the "state of the city" of San Bruno.

Moscone, who called the meeting "an informal media roundtable," said the reason he wanted to meet was for "an opportunity to get to know one another and allow you to question me on my legislative record and on issues of concern to your readers."

He dodged no questions, and was quite blunt, for example he said, "I think he's a fraud," in response to a question about what he thought of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Moscone, who has no competition in the Democratic primary, and whose only two Republican opponents in the June election are from San Francisco, said he intends "to win by a large vote" in the newly created district.

"I want to spend as much time as possible with the constituents to be returned for another session," said Moscone. "You (in San Mateo County) really bug your legislators a lot," complimented the senator.

He said he already has asked present State Senator Arlen Gregorio, who will be seeking re-election in another new district further south, to brief him on local issues.

Moscone candidly admitted his knowledge of San Mateo County problems is limited, but reeled off what he said he knew to be some of the "major issues." These, he said, were airport expansion, San Bruno Mountain development and rapid transit for the Peninsula.

According to Moscone, the issue of "conservation versus construction doesn't make San Mateo County any more unique" than any other area.

The senator quickly squelched any presumed thoughts that he would be "automatically for San Francisco interests" because that's the area he has represented in the past.

"My job is to show not by rhetoric, but by action," he said. "I will have to pick up my share of friends and enemies on a given issue."

He was asked whether he would be an arbitrator between the supervisors of San Mateo and San Francisco Counties whenever controversial issues occur. "Someone has to bring people together. I'm willing to try to intervene and bring reason to these issues," he said.

Moscone said he honestly didn't know at this time what kind of a position he would take on San Bruno Mountain development.

"I can't see over-developing on what could be a last natural resource," he said.

On the San Francisco International Airport expansion issue, he said he sees "no compelling reason for expansion." He added that pressure for expansion was coming as much, if not more so, from the San Mateo County Development Association as from San Francisco interests.

Peninsulan Aids Offenders to Find Jobs

By DUANE SANDUL

For many law offenders in San Mateo County, part of the "bargain" for them staying out of jail for extended terms is to seek and maintain a job.

And, undoubtedly, many of the confessed or convicted criminals probably mumble to themselves as the judge mandates the job requirement, "That's been my problem - finding a job."

That's where Gary Yazalina comes to the rescue. It's his job, as an employment consultant for the County's Probation Department, to find jobs and training programs for hundreds of men and women placed on probation each year by judges.

It isn't always easy, but Yazalina's track record is good.

Thanks to him, doors of business representatives of dozens of Peninsula firms are opening for persons with records.

Additionally, the training necessary to acquire a skill is being found for persons without the necessary background to land a job.

Although it's statistically impossible to prove, the 40-year-old Yazalina believes that the county's job placement program is keeping dozens of persons from returning to criminal activities.

The personable Yazalina, who in essence trained himself in the job, said that 99 per cent of the probationers are motivated to seek jobs - but need a skill or a "break."

And the "break" is a business representative's understanding of what probation means - a period of time in which a person's life is monitored by trained specialists, seeking to adjust a criminal's lifestyle.

"The problem for many is that they're on probation and have been going in (for interviews) alone and companies are unaware as to what probation means," Yazalina said.

"The minute the person levels with them, if the company is unaware, quite often that's the end of the interview. Another thing which happens is that a person on probation often doesn't know what to say, whether he should level with a business rep or fake it. We advise them to level with the companies, and they won't be precluded."

The contact Yazalina has established with several major companies from San Jose to San Francisco has made it possible for him to often pick up the telephone and inform a potential employer that he has a candidate for a job vacancy. But most of his time is spent knocking on potential employer doors.

About the only types of businesses which generally are uninterested with persons who have criminal backgrounds are banks and retail stores.

"They use the reasoning that there's bonding and money, and we don't push it," Yazalina said. He noted too that the banks may soon change their policies.

Yazalina said that before the energy crisis gained momentum late last fall the employment picture had been improving, especially with electronic companies.

"Now companies are cautious about this energy thing, so employment is about status quo or selective hiring," he explained. "And when the competition gets tougher, it's harder to place our probationers."

A research study by Yazalina last year illustrated that about 53 per cent of the probationers obtained and maintained employment during the year, four per cent were involved in vocational training programs and three per cent returned to college as fulltime students.

About 26 per cent remained unemployed, only seven per cent were returned to custody and another seven per cent left the county's jurisdiction.

The study also showed, he reported, that the vast majority of unemployed probationers being referred to him and a newly-hired consultant covering the North County, Dick DeLisser, are between the ages of 18 and 25, single, with no military service, sporadic job backgrounds, high school attendees but not necessarily graduates, and 50 per cent did not have transportation or a driver's license.

The bulk of referrals, which generally average from 40 to 60 per month, require some training before job placement, Yazalina said.

Yazalina notes that not all placements work out, but that the overwhelming majority of companies recognize that persons "off the streets" sometimes don't work out either. Thus, because a person on probation doesn't hold a job, the companies are not shying away from considering others.

So when judges make a condition of probation that persons seek and maintain employment, there is hope.

State Park Bond

William Penn Mott, state director of parks and recreation, told the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday that he hopes for voter approval of "mandate" proportions in the June 4 primary election of a proposed $250 million state bond measure to finance park and recreation acquisitions and improvements throughout the state.

If the measure is approved, a total of $2.1 million will accrue to San Mateo County and its cities. A committee of county and city officials already have decreed that 90 per cent of the funds would go to the cities, and the balance to the county.

"We really mean what we say when we specify that we want to leave a legacy for our children," Mott told the board.

The state official is touring the state promoting support from city and county officials for the bond measure.

"Although this bond issue needs only a simple majority to pass, we really want to get a mandate," Mott stated. "I know San Mateo County is enthusiastic."

Mott urged the county and its cities to devise a program of bond fund expenditures as soon as possible.

If a spending program is submitted to the state prior to June 1, he said, local entities can begin utilizing funds (if the measure passes) by July 1, rather than having to wait for another year.

Mott was optimistic about passage of the measure, noting that citizen participation in parks and recreation programs is increasing. He reported that the state has received $32 million in gifts during the past three years to help in its park and recreation programs.

"There will be improvement down the line," he stated.

Pacifica Expenses Slight

Campaigning in Pacifica is starting off slowly, judging by first reports of expenses filed last week.

Friday of last week was the deadline for the first report for ballot propositions, under the new expense reporting law.

For Proposition A, to allow the City Council to increase the tax-rate, if necessary, to provide for salary increases, $64.51 was listed as spent. Sole contributor was restaurateur May Gee, who served spaghetti, bread and coffee for a gathering of 50 persons, and provided a four-by-eight foot sign reading "Yes on Proposition A."

For Proposition B, swimming pool bonds, treasurer Aubrey Lumley reported $70 contributed and $100 more pledged. Only $8.80 was spent.

Bomb Threat At Gas Pump

A motorist who was irked at the 10-gallon gasoline limit at Chuck's Chevron Service Station at 2499 Oceana Ave., has threatened to bomb the station, Pacifica police revealed Thursday.

According to the attendant, the patron was giving him a bad time about the 10-gallon limit.

"At least we aren't closed," the attendant told him. "A lot of stations are." "Yeah - well you're going to be bombed," the patron was supposed to have replied.

The attendant told the motorist that it was not wise to make a bomb threat.

"You'll have to have a witness to prove it," motorist retorted.

The attendant complained to police, he explained, because he felt the customer really meant what he said. The motorist, now subject of a police search, was driving a yellow-orange Ford Econoline van, police said.

Platform Truck Bid Approved

South San Francisco City Councilmen Feb. 4 approved a $150,255.89 bid for a 90-foot elevating platform truck despite protest over its being the sole bid.

The successful bidder was Calavar Corp. of Santa Fe Springs, Calif., a subsidiary of the Seagraves Company.

Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner told Mayor Warren Steinkamp the Calavar Corp. was the only firm that could make the particular truck with all the features he wanted. The chief said he particularly had invited three firms to bid; one had too large a backlog and another one just was not interested. He even invited firms to bid their own special vehicles, but none did, he said.

South San Francisco's new truck will have a boom with a vertical reach of 90 feet, and a horizontal reach of 58 feet. Yet, it will have a length of only 38 feet, thus making it more maneuverable in South San Francisco's narrow hillside streets.

It will replace a 20-year-old aerial truck, which will be kept on for reserve for at least 10 to 15 years. That truck is being outfitted with a new engine this year.

Basic price for the new truck is $129,873, compared to the $130,000 estimated. However, $13,277.85 in options, plus $7,155.04 in sales tax brings the total up to $150,255.89.

The options include approximately $5,000 for an automatic transmission, which includes a retarder for going down hills; some 200 feet of ladders at about $23,000; four oxygen masks for $2,000; a sensing device to lock the boom when it nears a high tension wire, plus other equipment.

It will take some 14 to 16 months to build the truck, according to the fire chief, and thus the city did not have to budget for it this year.

Councilman William Borba urged that the council ask for new bids, which has been done in the past when only one bid was made. He also urged that the cost of the truck be compared with that paid for trucks in surrounding cities.

Toellner said that both Daly City and San Bruno have inferior trucks. Daly City's is unstable while San Bruno's lacks capabilities, such as reach, Toellner said. South San Francisco has special problems, such as its industries and its large expanse of townhouses.

The council approved the bid, 4-0, with Borba abstaining.

In addition, the council authorized the staff to call for bids to build the Communications Transmitter Building on top of Sign Hill - budgeted for $85,000.

The project consists of a 15 1/2 by 20-foot masonry block structure, plus a 10 by 10 yard area which will house a transformer and fuel storage tank.

Jury Acquits Griff in South San Francisco Arson Case

Preston Ray Griff, 32-year-old San Francisco businessman, was acquitted Wednesday of hiring an ex-convict to burn down a competitor in South San Francisco.

A San Mateo County jury of six women and six men returned the not guilty verdicts of conspiracy and arson to Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo at 2:30 p.m., after more than 10 hours of deliberations over three days.

Richard Ludewick of Millbrae, jury foreman, said jurors agreed not to discuss the case with newsmen, but nine jurors huddled with a disappointed prosecutor, Stan Poling.

The deputy district attorney reported that the nine jurors told him that they thought Griff was guilty, but were not convinced by the evidence.

Griff maintained during the two-week trial that he was not responsible for the arson of E and J Upholstery June 27, 1972.

He and his attorney, Nathan Cohn of San Francisco, exchanged smiles as Ludewick affirmed to Judge Piombo that the "not guilty" verdicts were true.

Two witnesses, Gerald Harmon and Michael Hammar, admitted involvement in the plot, and were granted immunity from prosecution.

Poling reported that the jurors told him that they believed the two ex-cons conspired together, but were unsure as to their employer.

A perfect weekend family outing would be to spend Sunday afternoon at Bay Meadows Race Track in San Mateo. A record-breaking Harness Race meet is currently taking place, with Sunday racing being an added enticement. 1 p.m. is first race post time every Sunday through February as well as Sunday, March 3, the last day of the meet. Some exciting door prizes will also be offered fans each Sunday. And don't forget the popular Ramos Fizz Sunday Brunch from 11:30 a.m.

Mike Hesser - New Manager, Castaway

How often do employees of a restaurant band together to place an advertisement introducing the establishment's new manager? Almost never, is the answer. But this is exactly what happened at the Castaway. Headed by Norma Galvin, the entire crew at the Castaway chipped in to pay for an advertisement to introduce Mike Hesser, the new general manager of this exotic Coyote Point restaurant. Also among the changes is a new menu, and Ben Thompson, a veteran of 26 years in the culinary arts, has been appointed executive chef. The crew urges long-time customers of the Castaway and first-time visitors to come and enjoy the all-new look. . . . Although Frank Martinielli's Beach House is one of San Mateo's most popular niteries, we call your attention to the adjacent Tiki Garden restaurant, where Polynesian food is the main attraction for both luncheon and dinner. . . . The Lotus Chamber, a new Chinese restaurant, will open Thursday in downtown San Mateo. The owner is Hoffman Wong, a former San Francisco resident who has hoped for many years to own his own restaurant. The Lotus Chamber, which will be serving both luncheon and dinner, celebrates its Grand Opening on Valentine's Day (Feb. 14). So treat your sweetheart to something special.

Nick and Lorraine Gust On Duty at All Hours

It keeps Lorraine and Nick Gust on the double tending to their Rockaway Beach restaurant duties. With three such popular restaurants as Captain Charles, The Moonraker and Nick's to oversee, is it any wonder that this energetic team can be found on duty at 'most any hour! No gas problem to drive to Nick's domain, as it's just 15 minutes from San Mateo — and well worth the scenic trip to the coast of Pacifica. Be a "sweetheart" and treat your best girl to a wonderful meal on Valentine's Day. Enjoy the romantic atmosphere afforded here. . . . By nature, Reno Donati of the New Southern restaurant is a gregarious fellow. But never has he been more enthusiastic about one of his lounge entertainers than he seems to be about organist Joe Simon-tacchi. But don't take his word for it — judge for yourself any Friday or Saturday night, when Joe leads the songfests and plays your tune requests. . . . Join the dancing crowds each Sunday evening at the Villa Hotel. Charlie Blackwell and his Orchestra provide the "Big Band" sounds in the Pacifica Ballroom from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight. Admission is $2.75 per person, and a wonderful evening of dancing is guaranteed. As for refreshments, the Villa Lounge and the Villa Coffee House are just steps away.

Authentic Japanese Dinners At Irifune

If you're looking for the authentic in Japanese dining, you won't go wrong when choosing the Irifune restaurant. The customs of removing footwear to sit with legs folded beneath you and the art of eating with chopsticks are practiced at this friendly neighborhood restaurant, where Toshio Kiyohara has transplanted the traditions of the ginza to 17th Avenue in San Mateo. Authentic Japanese dinners and a la carte specialties are served by kimono-clad waitresses in the dining area or in partitioned cubicles (Tatami rooms) with sliding doors to make you feel as though you were seated in the Teahouse of the August Moon. Toshi, the charming wife of Toshio, is an expert on Japanese cuisine and is always happy to help you choose the right dishes from their selective menu. Among the favorites are the Irifune Dinner, a combination of Sukiyaki and Tempura (the latter is prawns and vegetables deep fried) and the Nishiki Dinner, which consists of Beef Teriyaki (prime ribs of beef broiled in teriyaki sauce). All dinners come complete with Suimono (clear broth), steamed rice, green tea, cookie and dessert. And be sure to try the traditional sake or Japanese beer. Open seven nights a week. As a matter of suggestion, call first to reserve one of the Tatami rooms.

"Entertainment The Nevada Way" In Tahoe

Park Avenue Tours offers "Entertainment The Nevada Way" to those taking advantage of their transportation opportunities. Fun seekers driving to South Lake Tahoe receive a total bonus value of $10 per person and it's available seven days a week. Overnights are also available, with an excellent bonus refund. Daily eight-hour Turn-around schedules. No matter where or when you plan a trip, Park Avenue Tours has the right package for you. "Reserve now for the George Washington Birthday weekend," is the advice of Park Avenue Tours. Special rates will go into effect. . . . The problem of parking while leisurely enjoying luncheon or dinner is given much consideration these days. Now hear this: There's no long walk or time element when selecting Vince Licata's Italian and Seafood restaurant for that moment of appetite appeasement. You'll find ample parking in the area almost doorside. . . . Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant and florist in San Francisco is a teatime oasis every afternoon. An assortment of six delicious tea sandwiches is priced at only $1.75 and includes smoked salmon, roast chicken, cucumber, water cress, sharp cheddar cheese blended with chopped walnuts, and pate on an English biscuit.

Bus System Plan for DC

By FRANK LAPIERRE

A movement that has been under way in Daly City regarding establishment of a citywide bus system for the past several weeks was made public during a study session of the City Council Monday.

The talks were first reported in the Times-Post earlier this week following rumors that the city had been conferring with two bus companies. This was confirmed by a City Hall source.

At the Monday meeting, Councilman Victor Kyriakis, chairman of the city's Transportation Committee, said he and members of the city staff had held several talks with representatives of Servi-Car, Inc., and Kenny Transportation Company.

Kyriakis said he also met with officials of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) and the San Francisco office of the Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA).

The lack of a top-notch bus transportation system in San Mateo County's second largest city has been a hot issue in the current municipal elections. Announcement by the council of talks on the subject may pull the rug out from under critics of the city staff's past stand on this matter, veteran city hall observers say.

Kyriakis would not comment on this view, except to point out the subject of establishing a new bus network in the city "has been under consideration by us for some time."

Servi-Car is a Foster City-based operation that operates systems in Redwood City and Menlo Park.

A spokesman for Servi-Car president Armand Cohn, said his company held talks with Daly City on the possibility of inaugurating services there.

Cohn ventured it would take about 19 buses to properly service the city, costing about $600,000.

Public Utility Commission and not the city in its operations. This is because its buses cross the county line between San Francisco and San Mateo.

It is no secret that officials and citizens alike are not satisfied with the services of Northgate. The usual answer to queries on the service is that "It's better than nothing."

Northgate has individually owned and operated buses. There is no franchise tax paid to the city, only a $45 fee for a business license.

Cohn said his company, while interested in setting up and operating a bus system in Daly City, would not want to "step on the little company."

His company would prefer working something out, whereby perhaps the Northgate operators and their equipment might be incorporated into the over-all system.

Kyriakis and the council want action on the issue now.

The majority of the council, contacted individually, have indicated they want to move on the issue and not wait for the outcome of the new draft legislation for the establishment of a San Mateo County Transit District.

Kyriakis feels, with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District in its backyard, the city can no longer wait.

"What if we wait until June and the Transit District act doesn't get on the ballot. Then we have to wait until November, at which time the voters might reject the entire matter," Kyriakis said.

And Daly City would still be without a bus system, he pointed out.

If Daly City contracts with Servi-Car, or any individual acceptable for such a project, the city would in effect go into the bus business.

Capital costs of establishing the public utility would be some $500,000 and there is likely to be an annual deficit in operations.

Now for the good news.

If voters pass formation of a countywide transportation system, the new district could later contract with Daly City and absorb the bus system into the over-all scheme officials explain. Any such transportation system inaugurated by a city or area must be compatible with the over-all transportation plan.

If the transit district idea flops, as did the last proposal brought before voters, the city could likely still get monies from federal and state sources to run the bus system.

Mass transit monies under SB 325 and similar acts are available, as are gas tax monies to cities.

All Daly City has to do is come up with an acceptable plan, and submit its application for study before the March 1, 1974, deadline.

If funds accumulated over the past two years are not requested prior to March 1, then the city must wait until next year.

Meanwhile, Daly City has an estimated half-million dollars being held by the county under SB 325.

However, because some of the funds were used to finance BART and the San Francisco Muni inside the city limits, Daly City has only an estimated $500,000 in the kitty, instead of $700,000.

The principal program of interest to the city, according to Kyriakis, is the mass transit equipment capital grant program under which the federal government contributes 80 per cent of the cost of capital equipment. This could be used for buses and other facilities.

Once purchased, the city would turn over operation of the system and its maintenance to a contract company, such as Kenny or Servi-Car.

City Manager David Rowe said he did not think it would be too difficult to make a study of the city's requirements in a short period of time.

Following the holiday season most of us feel that it might be a good idea to get away for a little quiet meditation and reassessment of attitudes, values and goals.

The men of Our Lady of Mercy parish share that notion and so, annually, the Westlake Catholic Men's Association plans a retreat to El Retiro near Los Altos. The 1974 retreat is planned for this coming weekend, and the committeemen who have been working on the plans and organization for the event are extending an invitation to all men in this area, Catholic and non-Catholic, to take part.

Don Bechtel, Frank Mullin and Frank McCann have been working on the preparations for the retreat which will begin Friday evening and conclude on Sunday afternoon. Anyone wishing information or reservations should call Bechtel, 756-5266 or McCann, 359-2512, immediately, according to Joseph Dovichi, publicity chairman.

EXCITING arrangements are underway at the Holy Angels parish where the Men's Club and the Women's Guild are working together on the arrangements for a Monte Carlo night in the parish hall.

Mrs. Bev. Powelson, publicity chairwoman for the guild, suggests everyone mark their calendar now so the Feb. 23 date will be reserved for the evening of fun, games and prizes.

Mrs. Audrey Zanobini and Richard Botta are chairing the committee charged with presentation of Monte Carlo night.

MEMBERS OF the Mary's Help Hospital Guild are reminded that there will be no meeting next week due to a conflict of meeting dates with the California Hospital Association of Hospital Volunteers.

The February meeting will be held March 1, according to Mrs. Fran Gaffigan, editor of Paging Pinafores. On that date Mrs. Jennie Aiello and Mrs. Philip Raineri will be attending the second guild meeting since they became members in December.

MEMBERS OF the Fifty plus club who hope to see the blossoms in Death Valley are reminded that the desert excursion is scheduled to begin Feb. 23.

Members of the club and friends who plan to take this lovely trip with its side junkets to Las Vegas, Vandenberg and Lake Havasu, are asked to contact the reservations chairwoman, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg or tour chairwoman Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, immediately.

TWILA FOSTER, Karen Kjeldgaard, Dorice Robinson and Jane Stewart will be the guest speakers at the Feb. 21 meeting of the Daly City Area, Girl Scout Association.

The Association members will meet in Breuners at 7 p.m. for a regular business session and to hear the young women, all Senior Opportunity Girls from the local Girl Scout Council, speak on the special places they were chosen to visit this past summer.

IT MAY SEEM a little early to mark the calendar for a March event, but members of the executive board of Friends Outside are asking that we do just that.

The annual dinner to raise money for Family Camp for the wives and children of men in jail or prison is scheduled for March 22.

The wives of prisoners will cook and serve the dinner March 22 in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

Reservations are already being accepted and tickets cost $3 per person. For information or reservations call 661-6900.

CONGRATULATIONs to the owners and personnel at Shakey's Piazza Parlor in Daly City for donating a percentage of the profits from sales Feb. 7 to the Boy Scouts of Serra District!

FROM THE FIRST minute that the crowd began assembling Feb. 2, until well after 4 p.m. the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco was alive with lovely, excited and enthusiastic women.

The occasion was, of course, the twentieth anniversary of the Westlake Catholic Women's annual Fashion Show and luncheon. Mrs. Francis Kelly, president of the Catholic Women, instructed her fashion show chairwoman and co-chairwoman, to pull out all the stops and make the anniversary one to be remembered. Mrs. Peter Balestrieri and Mrs. James McCann took her advice literally and the result was spectacular! From the clothes by Livingston's to the centerpieces created by Mrs. Harry Lindner and Mrs. Donald Bechtel the entire afternoon was, in the words of Monsignor Richard Powell, "First class, all of the way."

Collector Draws Police Attention

Serge Masche, a 21-year-old Los Angeles gun collector, learned one lesson the hard way Friday night at the San Francisco International Airport, the sheriff's office reported today.

Never to be late when catching a plane after exhibiting his collection.

According to Deputy Sheriff F. G. Gagnon, Masche was late in reaching the airport after exhibiting his collection at a show in San Jose, and was unable to check in his baggage. He was advised to carry it on, however, he told Gagnon, and cleared the pre-screening area with four bags.

At the check point, Masche told the security guard there were three guns in his suitcase. The guard opened the suitcase and found 22, 32 and 45-caliber handguns. He immediately notified the FBI and FAA security.

Garden of the Month

THE BROADMOOR Property Owners Association presented the Garden of the Month Award for January to Hollis Gray of 656 Larchmont Drive, Colma. Gray, a hospital administrator, arranged his own rock garden laced with a variety of evergreens. Each month the association selects a garden of the month in the Broadmoor area. (Bob McLeod Photo)

'Fiddler,' Aged Inspire Drawings

Prints of eleven pen and ink drawings by Southern California artist, Laura Cobos, may be seen during regular business hours through Feb. 22 at Home Savings and Loan Daly City, 7070 Mission St.

The drawings are inspired by movie stills from the musical "Fiddler on the Roof," by magazine photos and by the artist's close observations of the elderly.

A native of Van Nuys, Ms.

Cobos studied at Valley Junior College and then at Chouinard Art Institute. The artist first was commissioned to do a series of drawings for the Hebraic Art Institute. Subsequently, lithographs were made from her renderings of old men and various Jewish subjects, including her scenes from the musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Following the success of these first commercial efforts, Ms. Cobos recently embarked on a new direction, cartooning for a large Los Angeles community newspaper. In these efforts she draws her themes from everyday life, attempting to inform the viewer about relationships common to us all.

Home Savings and Loan

Association has supported fine arts for nearly 20 years. Purchase awards are provided annually for the Los Angeles All-City Art Festival, San Francisco Art Festival and the California National Water Color Society. Winners comprise a unique collection numbering over 400 pieces, available for display publicly or privately without cost to the borrower.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.
Since tomorrow is St. Valentine's Day, why not bake a fancy treat for your family to celebrate? This cherry topped cake features the right colors, red and white and is quite easy to prepare.

SWEETHEART CHERRY CAKE

- 1 package white cake mix, 18.5 ozs.
- 1 can cherry pie filling
- 1/2 pint whipping cream
- One-third cup powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix and bake the cake according to the directions on box, making two 8-inch layers. Cool.

Place the cherry pie filling in a collander to drain off some of the juice. Whip the half pint cream and add the one-third cup powdered sugar and one teaspoon vanilla.

Spread whipped cream on the top of the bottom layer of cake. Spoon the juice that has been drained off over the top. Carefully place the second layer on top of filling and frost the whole cake with the remaining whipped cream. With the spatula form a ridge of whipped cream around the edge of the top of the cake and spoon the drained cherries in the center. Refrigerate for about 2 hours.

Recently I was looking for a recipe for cooking chicken and found this one that I haven't used in years. It makes a tasty dish. I recommend it to you good cooks.

PEACHY CHICKEN

- 2 1/2 to 3 pound frying chicken, cut-up
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon each pepper and poultry seasoning
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 can cling peaches (No. 2 1/2 can size)
- 1 can refrigerated biscuits

Combine the one cup flour with the two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and poultry seasoning and one teaspoon paprika. Dip the cut up chicken in the half cup evaporated milk and roll in flour mixture. (Set aside remaining flour mixture for gravy.)

Melt the half cup shortening in a 13x9-inch pan. (Not a glass pan, as you are going to make gravy in this pan.) Place the chicken, skin side down, in pan and bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 40 minutes. Turn chicken and move to one end of pan. With spoon or rubber scraper push drippings to end of pan with chicken. Drain the peaches and arrange halves on top of chicken.

Open canned biscuits and separate, place in one end of pan. Bake 15 minutes, or until biscuits are brown. Remove peaches, chicken and biscuits to hot plates. Keep warm while you make gravy.

GRAVY

- 1/4 cup set-aside flour mixture
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 cup evaporated milk
- Blend the one-fourth cup flour with the drippings in baking pan. Gradually stir in the one cup water. Boil and stir for 2 minutes. Stir in the one cup evaporated milk.

Rock Music

We've had a revolution, says Ellen Sander. Rock Music! Hot damn! Viet am! San Amntone!

Rock music — lively and irreverent, Ms. Sander suggests it speaks for a generation far more than any patriotic music. It is the sound of the "weirdest and most awesome period of our history" extending from the birth of the H-bomb to the death of JFK or in another perspective from Sh-Boom, Sh-Boom to Altamont.

The real leaders of the era, although we have been unwilling to realize it, have been the rock groups, some with faces "contorted" and the veins on their necks standing "out like blue wires reaching toward their... skulls" and such soloists as Jimi Hendrix and Bob Dylan who appealed to youth during the sixties and the early seventies when America was passing through a "gut-busting trip, intense, filled with the most glorious heights and the most extreme rude, soul-deteriorating shocks, demands and humiliations."

"Trips" is the story of rock music and groups that made it from the Beatles and the Rolling Stones to the Jefferson Airplane and the Moby Grape.

It is a book that should be read by anyone seeking to understand America. Rock music came with Teenism in the fifties "when coming of age was pure pain." When the smug self-righteousness of the entire social system began to crumble before our eyes. "We were jolted," she writes, "shocked from our troubled, changing insides to the perimeters of perception, and our world was set spinning to the edge of sexual awareness." To this Ellen Sander adds, "I don't know how we could have made it through the acceleration of shocks without our trusty companions — transistor radios tuned to the rock and roll in the air and a stack of 45's, as intimate as a diary."

"TRIPS" is a diary. Ms. Sander's and whole generations. Here is an eye-witness account of people who made the scene at Newport and Woodstock; of audiences of young people who "trounced" around in their seats, jogged their heads, and clapped their hands in time while the light show burst with colored forms and incense wafted down from the balcony.

Here is explained what happened when an entire house got high — "high on music, high on the milieu, high — most importantly — on each other." Ms. Sander found that it was not necessarily the groups that made the "kids" high on the music. "The group on stage made magic but the real rock and roll stars were in the audience, their faces falling open, their hearts leaping into the light."

Meanwhile the world moved to confuse the young by assassinating their heroes — the Kennedy brothers and Dr. King... and by breaking the peace with the Vietnam War.

The articulation was led by groups that broke away from the stupid sounds expected of the young people by a generation that created "See You Later, Alligator," and the sweet harmonies of the Everly Brothers and "Woo-woo, Peggy Sue" and the "oo-ee-oo-ah, ting-tang, Walla-walla-bing-bang."

Their power to move "the kids" was understood by the groups that led the rock-music revolt. Thus Ms. Sander reports such conversations as this between Jim Morrison "who was the one cool renegade to reign over the pop scene for a length of time" and other people who were back stage during a concert:

"That's a weird g.g." said John. "If those kids really got together and figured, we're 15,000 and there are only a couple of hundred cops, they'd really do something. I can't decide if I dig it or I don't. Do you dig it, Jim?"

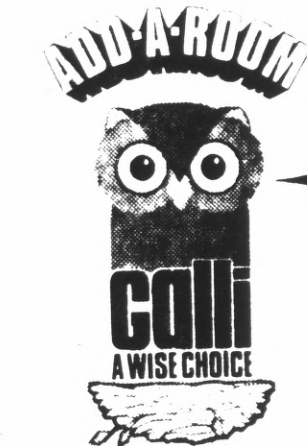

"They'd really do a revolt thing if I jumped off the stage, wouldn't they?" asked Morrison... One of the cameramen laughed... "I'm not going to be shooting (revolving) I'm going to be picking up the bread."

Everyone laughed but John — John Densmore one of the singers, was still trying to piece it together from his point of view. "All that unrest," he mused.

Citing such incidents Ms. Sander asks who were the real leaders of this country during the Rock days of the Sixties, the politicians or the musicians.

In the agenda of "Trips" Ellen Sander lists many of the artists and many of the groups and accounts their careers and their influences. This alone makes the book a valuable addition to the "printed word."

"Trips" is a book to read and think about. Don't miss it.

Little Paragons of Courage

Many Examples of Youth Bravery

By JOHN HORGAN

It was late one December evening more than a year ago.

The television set was tuned in to the nightly news. The hour was slowly approaching midnight.

Each segment of the news was a kind of blur. More of the same as it is every night. More death. More destruction. More of the sort of things that depress and make one cynical.

But then, something a little more horrifying than the usual run-of-the-tube menu came on. It involved the accidental killing of a number of children in Vietnam.

A hospital where they had been cared for was bombed out and the dead and dying youngsters could be seen right there in my sitting room. It was not pretty. I shook my head, took another pull on my beer and tried to forget about those troubling scenes.

However, the following item on the show was just a bit too much, especially when the two were in sequence.

This one showed a bunch of football players at the Shriner's Hospital in San Francisco as they visited the sick and crippled children there prior to an annual benefit game here in the Bay Area.

Those two news bits were so perfectly juxtaposed that it was all I could do to keep from leaving the room.

That children had to be subjected to that kind of misfortune just seemed miserably unfair and without reason.

Why the innocent must suffer like that is beyond me. Granted that it has become a cliché that people who are feeling low, who believe that life has played dirty tricks on them, but those folks perhaps ought to be exposed to some of the courage and bravery of children.

There is a youngster here in a Peninsula grammar school who recently went through all of the uncertainties and fears involved in a procedure to diagnose, analyze and treat a non-malignant brain tumor.

The affliction had caused him to grow too quickly. It had affected his pituitary gland to such a marked degree that something had to be done fast to alleviate his situation. Surgery and radiation therapy were two answers.

Through it all, this boy remained calm, an example for his family and friends — an example, really, for anyone who came in contact with him during the last several months.

But he is just one case from among the thousands which dot the local landscape.

If you should chance to visit one of the pediatric wards at any of our major hospitals, you will find many further examples of this kind of youthful bravery under pain and stress.

Some of the children are actually dying. But they remain little paragons of courage.

PTA Founders

Day Event Set

The Thomas Edison P-TA will celebrate Founders Day with a Parents Night Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room, featuring the San Francisco Banjo Club. Due to the nature of the entertainment—a dance for our parents—children will not be permitted to attend. Refreshments will be served.

County Camp Fire Girls Candy Sale Continues

The Camp Fire Girls candy sale is continuing in full swing with Camp Fire Girls of all ages selling Miss Saylor's mint patties and Heath toffee bars. Girls are going door to door and standing in shopping centers offering the gaily decorated boxes for sale.

Theme for this year's sale is "reach out—sell more in '74." The sale will continue through Feb. 24. Profits from the candy sale make up 46 1/2 per cent of the Golden Gate Council's budget each year.

Besides supporting the council, the girls also are helping their own groups, as the major source of income for most groups is their profits from the candy sale. Girls have an even greater chance this year to help not only their groups and their council, but themselves as for the first time camperships are being offered not only to the highest selling girl in each area, but to every girl selling 200 boxes or more.

Girls can also earn several other awards along the way. Girls will receive an honor award if they sell 12 boxes and a large poster will go to every girl selling 48 boxes.

A felt emblem for their costume will go to every girl selling 84 boxes and a charm to every girl selling 120 boxes.

Miss Saylor's candy company opened their plant for a day to give tours to all the girls interested and to show them how the candy is made.

Catholic Auxiliary Tea Is Planned

The annual membership tea of the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of San Mateo County will be held Feb. 26, at the home of Mrs. Richard McLaughlin, Jr., Hillsborough from 1 to 3 p.m.

Chairwoman, Mrs. Daniel Pisano of Burlingame and co-chairwoman, Mrs. E. Longinotti of Hillsborough have asked past presidents of the auxiliary to pour at this traditional event.

Among those who will preside at the tea table are Mrs. William Weeks, Mrs. Albert Baggiani, Mrs. Donald Sabatini and Mrs. Max Messinger, all of Burlingame. Also Mrs. George Littlejohn, Mrs. Peter Fagan and Mrs. Acton O'Donnell of San Mateo. Past presidents from Hillsborough include Mrs. Hugh Connolly, Mrs. Robert Tuck, Mrs. Charles Creighton, and Mrs. Edward Molkenburgh, Jr.

New members will be introduced by president, Mrs. Joseph Kump of Burlingame in a spring setting. Fresh flowers will be presented to the new members who will be honored at the tea.

Members of the auxiliary participate in a variety of programs, all with the express purpose of supporting the Catholic Social Service Agency in San Mateo County. The Agency offices are located in San Mateo, Daly City and Menlo Park. Members also staff the "Primrose House of Values," 307 Primrose in Burlingame and participate in the Handicapped Program.

The Catholic Social Service Agency is a multi-purpose family service agency, established in 1943.

It offers professional counseling service to individuals and families. The Agency is currently expanding its activities to include the establishment of more community programs as needed—especially the R.S.V.P. program (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) which makes use of a valuable source of volunteers—retired senior citizens in San Mateo County.

FBI Agent To Speak In SSF

Fordyce G. Lyman, retired Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been invited to be the guest speaker at the Feb. 20 meeting of the Golden West Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association to be held at the Royal Inn in South San Francisco.

Lyman was born and raised in Cleveland, Ohio and prior to entering on duty with the FBI in 1933, had extensive experience in the construction field. He received his BS degree in accounting at Southeastern University in Washington, D.C.

Throughout his 40 years service with the FBI, Lyman was assigned to the Washington Headquarters, Washington, D.C., Kansas City and San Francisco field offices, retiring last June after serving in the latter office 32 years.

Lyman's topic for the evening will be "Getting to Know the FBI."

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

Director Mark Rydell had to persuade 20th-Century Fox to persuade 20th-Century Fox that unknown actress Marsha Mason could carry a lead role opposite the better-known James Caan in "Cinderella Liberty." They were rewarded for their confidence when she won the Golden Globe award this month for "Best Actress" against the heavy competition of Joanne Woodward and Barbra Streisand.

Actually, she isn't an unknown to anyone in the Bay Area who might have seen her with American Conservatory Theater in "Cyrano de Bergerac" (also on KQED-TV last night) and "A Doll's House."

It wasn't even her first time before the cameras. Miss Mason was the best thing going for "Blume In Love" in a relatively small role as George Segal's interim girl friend. And now that she has married Neil Simon and is starring in his hit Broadway play, "The Good Doctor," Rydell's insistence that she play the Seattle prostitute in the heart-warming love story is well founded.

"I Love" wanted a star. I saw the dailies of "Blume In Love" and thought her extraordinarily gifted.

High Speed Chase Ends In Arrests

Two men were captured last Wednesday by South San Francisco police after a pursuit through the streets of two cities at speeds exceeding 110 miles per hour.

Norman Frank Walker, 30, no address, and James Earl Deaber, 33, San Francisco, were booked on suspicion of burglary, resisting arrest and possession of burglary tools. A third man, James Alan Rhodes, 27, 712 Claridge, Pacifica, was booked on burglary charges.

Police Officers Dennis "Skip" Sullivan and Brad Marsh report they saw two men emerging from the side entrance of Anchor Drugs, 391 Grand Ave. and tossing drugs into their back seat. As police went up to investigate, the men sped away, careening with no lights down Maple Avenue, onto School Street, Hillside Drive, Linden Avenue and Airport Boulevard, onto Bayshore Freeway and then ducking into San Bruno Avenue in San Bruno.

From there they sped up 6th Avenue, then came back on 7th Avenue, losing control of the car after hitting a rise on the old canal, and striking two parked cars, police said.

Police skidded into the wrecked car, destroying the front end of the police car, then took off after the men. Officers arrested the men at gunpoint in a backyard a block away.

The two men suffered minor injuries.

Car Pool Plan OK'd

Participation of San Mateo County employees in the "Rides" program sponsored by the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) as a means of conserving gasoline was approved Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors.

County Manager M. D. Tarshe said that the car pool system is available to all employees with more than 100 employees.

He explained that employees who are interested in joining a car pool will complete a questionnaire provided by ABAG. The questionnaires will be forwarded to ABAG for processing through a computer which will provide the county with a printout matching possible riders and drivers.

"I view of the present prices and availability of gasoline, many employees may be interested in joining car pools," Tarshe said.

Further, he noted, a successful car pool program can also have a significant impact on the effort to reduce air pollution in the Bay Area.

The county manager noted that participation by employees would be on a volunteer basis.

Supervisor William H. Royer, enthusiastic about the proposal, suggested that the county study the possibility of providing incentive for the program by devising a plan for preferential parking for participants.

ACT Actress Praised As Best In Years

The term 'skid row' originated there. It began as 'Skid Road' because of a waterfront road where they rolled the logs down to the mill. Dives sprang up along that section and that's how it got started.

"I couldn't do it in Norfolk because of the urban renewal and high rises. But the Navy did a devious thing that cost me a lot more money than I expected."

"When a film will benefit from cooperation with the Department of Defense, they summon you to Washington, D.C. So I went and they all had notes on the script, objections that were valid."

like making the gold braid look good, etc. I agreed to all the corrections and they said yes to the loan of ships, bases and installations, including filming aboard a mine sweeper."

The plot involves a moral young medical with a temporary medical I leave that forces him off his ship on a cinderella liberty pass (in by midnight) during which time he meets and falls in love with a waterfront bar prostitute with a mulatto son. plan marries her and tries to plan a healthy future for the truant boy and his young attractive mother (Marsha Mason).

"Then four weeks prior to production they called me back and claimed they had further corrections. They wanted Maggie to be a nurse, not a prostitute, and wanted the Navy to help the frustrated sailor out of his problems instead of condemning him and refusing to recognize his marriage. And they didn't want Caan to desert in the end and wanted his senior officer who cuts sioned all avenues of help and support to be a non-commissioned officer so they could preserve the father figure of the Navy."

"So I told them to forget the whole deal. We had to invent. I went to Canada to find a privately owned mine sweeper, used a tuberculosis hospital turned into Navy barracks, went to colleges to get young men to portray sailors and rented all the uniforms. "It never occurred to them that they'd go a long way before they'd find a hero like Caan portrays, a moral man who behaves honorably. And if they'd cooperated, I'd have been less harsh on the Navy. But I called upon my own memories to show the dehumanization process."

"The picture is meant to be proletarian poetry. The false family of the Navy is just that, playwright, an unusual love story and introduces a major new American playwright, Darryl F. Zanuck (he also has in release, "The Last Detail" with Jack Nicholson)."

"I want him to get the credit, rather than the author because the novel is absurdist, really an attack on institutions and the action never leaves the Navy hospital. I wanted a different comedic style and the scriptwriter gave it to me."

Rydell, who occasionally and successfully doubles as an actor played the mean syndicate gangster in "The Long Goodbye." But his metier is directing and he's already begun on his next film project, F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender Is The Night."

"The casting comes last with me. After I've worked out all the pre-production arrangements, I know more about the story and what I want from it than anyone. Then I think about the actors."

"This won't be a remake of the 1961 version with Jason Robards and Jennifer Jones which suffered from respect. That was a dusty hymn to Fitzgerald that didn't work."

Rydell came out of the television field to direct three successful motion pictures, "The Fox," "The Reivers" and "Cowboys."

Death in Six Feet of Water

SSF Youth Drowns As Raft Capsizes

A grieving South San Francisco mother watched as members of the Sheriff's Reserve skin diving team recovered the body of her 8-year-old son from six feet of water in a Moss Beach pond Sunday afternoon.

Troy Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Johnson, 107 Pecks Lane, South San Francisco, drowned when he and three other youngsters were plunged into the pond waters when a makeshift raft on which they were playing tipped on its side.

Sheriff's Deputy Robert Poynter reported that Troy had been visiting for the weekend with his cousins, Linda, 11, and Edward, 8, Garcia at their home, Sunshine Valley Road and Etheldore Street.

Together with his cousins and a fourth youngster, Barbara Ann Bettencourt, 9, of 531 Kelmere St., Moss Beach, the children left the Garcia home about 11:30 a.m. to see the latter girl's pony kept at a location near Mack's Pond, situated in a field near Hoffner Place and Sunshine Valley Road. The pond, about 175-by-75 feet in dimension, is used for watering horses.

About 12:30 p.m., the Garcia children and the Bettencourt girl ran screaming to the nearby Elmer L. Hoffner home, 1626 Sunshine Valley Road, about 400 yards from the pond, telling Hoffner, 65, and his son-in-law, Elliot Overshiner, 32, who lives next door to Hoffner, that Troy was in the water.

The two men ran to the pond and repeatedly dived into the water in an exhausting futile effort to find the missing boy. Summoned to the scene, the sheriff's skin divers finally located the youngster's body in six feet of water about 20 feet from shore.

The water was so murky, Poynter said, that the divers had to search by "feel" rather than by sight in their efforts to locate the child.

Troy's mother, Mrs. Charlene Johnson, who had left her son at his cousins' home Saturday and then returned to South San Francisco, arrived at the scene just before the divers located the body.

The Garcia children's mother, Mrs. Alna Rae Thompson, told the deputy that she had warned the children when they left the house not to go near the pond.

The children told the deputy they were on the raft, constructed of fence posts and covered with plywood, when it tipped, dumping them into the water about 10 feet from shore.

Both Troy and Edward were wearing rubber fishing boots which apparently filled with water and pulled them rapidly under the water. Poynter reported, Edward managed to surface, and the two girls, who made it safely to shore, held a pole out to him and pulled him to shore.

Troy was a pupil at Martin School in South San Francisco.

SSF Gets Last Home

South San Francisco's councilmen Friday approved purchase of a home for $34,000, which represented the lone holdout on assembling a 5.7-acre site for a new police station and central firehouse.

Approval came through at an adjourned 5:30 p.m. meeting. Councilmen voted 4-0 for the purchase, with Councilman William Borba abstaining. The property is owned by four persons, in various shares.

Borba had also abstained on purchase of the rest of the site, for $1,047,500, a day night's meeting argued that such a purchase should be first voted upon at an election. City Manager Ed Alario had already met with architects, and they will go ahead and draw up a plan which will go on the ballot in this June's primary election, according to Alario. Some of the councilmen. Total cost of the complex is expected to come to $5.4 million.

Councilmen had argued that should the voters approve the complex, the land could be sold at a profitable profit.

Borba also complained that families have already been forced to sell out for the complex.

Fuchsia Pruning Time Is Here

By IVA NEWMAN
We have received two notices on fuchsia pruning demonstrations: San Francisco, Monday, at 8 p.m., at San Francisco's Hall of Flowers and San Mateo, Tuesday, 8 p.m., in the Machinist's Building on South Boulevard. These notices reminded me that I needed to get at my own fuchsias if I am to keep my New Year's resolution of taking care of all my plants at the best time for the plants instead of working them in when I had a few extra hours.

John Rolih says there are four phases of fuchsia culture: pruning, repotting, pinching and feeding but since we heard Bruce Antonelli, of the famous Antonelli Begonia Gardens talk on fuchsias and begonias last week at the Garden Study Club, we would add two more phases to our fuchsia care list. These are proper watering and starting new cuttings.

Every fuchsia grower, whether he has one or a 100 plants, must keep in mind that fuchsias bloom only on the current year's wood. If you don't prune you will have a few flowers from growth that grows out from the very end of the old branches. These will be poor quality and quite scanty. The idea of pruning is to force new growth as close to the main stem or body of the plant as possible. This is done by cutting last year's growth back almost to where it started. The wood left on the plant forms the framework of this year's plant. Pruning shapes the plant so that it can be trained to the grower's idea of beauty. All cuts should be made above a node. They are called eyes or buds on a rose. All three are a thickened place on the stem where a leaf was attached.

As fuchsias bear their leaves directly opposite each other on the branch there will be two nodes, one on each side of the branch. The cut should be made about 1/4 inch above the two nodes.

Fuchsias in containers and those in the garden are pruned somewhat differently. Those in the garden are usually pruned to fit a certain space or to provide a definite shape such as an espalier, shrub or standard, etc. Those in containers are pruned to provide a movable ornament with the trailer or hanging baskets being the most popular.

We usually start pruning our hanging baskets by shearing off all the stems to about one inch from the outside of the pot's rim. We then remove all the remaining leaves so that we can see all of the branches clearly. We next remove all weak or spindly branches then we shorten the good branches to about one inch inside the pot's rim making each cut one quarter inch above a pair of nodes. We also try to prune so that the top of the plant is low and flat. What we are trying to achieve is a quantity of fresh, new growth inside the pot for a more luxuriant fall of branches over the pot.

Repotting is the next step and every container-grown fuchsia should be repotted annually. To us this is a part of the pruning chore. The root system of fuchsias grows at about the same rate as the top. This means that the pot is usually so full of roots that there is no room for more growth and a good portion of the soil has been broken down and used up. More room and fresh soil is greatly needed.

To obtain the roots are pruned back in proportion to the amount of top growth removed. We do this by removing about one inch all around the root ball. We use a sharp knife and slice down through the roots and soil. When this is done we lay the root ball on its side and slice up to three inches from the bottom. This is done a little at a time so as not to remove too much of any large and important root. Next, with a hopstick we loosen the soil about the remaining roots and remove about half of it to make room for fresh soil. There is quite a lot of controversy on potting soil as each good grower has his own special blend. We use equal parts of sandy loam from the vegetable garden, oak leaf mold, coarse sand and tillo. We add one tablespoon of an 18-6-12 controlled-release fertilizer to each gallon of soil mixture and blend it in well before using the soil.

We wrap a piece of plastic around the root ball as soon as we remove it from the pot.

SSF Campaign Funds Reported

The four candidates for the South San Francisco City Council had collected a total of $8,362 by Friday, city officials reported today.

So far, it appears that the two challengers, Leo Padreddi and Richard Battaglia, have collected nearly three times as much money as incumbents, William Borba and Pat Ahern.

Borba is listed as having received $1,038 and spending $350, mainly for lumber and other material for signs.

Ahern, who received $1,063, listed as his major contributors: Art Haskins, contractor, 114 Maple Ave., South San Francisco; Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 467 of Burlingame, $200; himself, $113 and William Chapman, San Francisco engineer, $100.

Padreddi listed as his contributors: Lori's Continental Coiffeurs, $200; Thomas B. Gallen, attorney, $100; Gene and Laura Passagno of Fremont, (his sister and brother-in-law) $100; Oliver Music Co. of San Bruno, $200; miscellaneous, $220 and proceeds from the ticket sale to a fund-raising party, $2,140.

Donations of material included 10 cases of champagne from Brentwood Liquors, $225.65, and miscellaneous donations of $215. Altogether, some $1,647 has been spent on the campaign, including $881 for billboards and $175 for advertising.

Richard Battaglia has received $2,870 and spent $2,070. Major donors were Frank Spadarella, Daly City restaurateur, $200; Jennie Dentone, $250; Angelo Battaglia, North Beach pharmacist, $200, and the Committee to Elect Battaglia, $235. Smaller donations of under $100 each, totaled $1,336.

So far, $1,860 has been spent on his behalf, including $574 for brochures, $108 for election cards and $185 for a band.

Pacific Candidate Visits Terra Nova

Janice Fulford, Pacifica

City Council candidate, was a guest speaker for Jim Soden's second period U.S. History class and Rhona Pessel's American Studies class, Jan. 23.

"The people who live here are my prime concern. The problem with Pacifica deals with its money problem and Pacifica's increase in population. We've really been asked to take more than we can swallow. I would like to see encouragement of business around here," said Ms. Fulford.

She also spoke about her former jobs as librarian, an active participant in the environmental fight, youth employment, and how much we need to add some grace and beauty to this environment.

In conclusion, Fulford said, "I believe in general, that the council has failed to represent the majority of the people in Pacifica. If I were to represent the people, I would be guided by strict constitutionality."

Another political happening at Terra Nova was the new voting procedure. For the first time in Terra Nova's history, voting took place directly after the student candidates' speeches.

The assembly was held in the cafeteria to hear student body and class officer candidate speeches, after which ballots were distributed.

Tiger Tales is out this week. Read about the problems of hitchhiking, student polls on employment, T.N.'s exchange student Bernhard Schleich, a story by Katie Dryden on whether the school should concentrate on teaching the three R's or social morality, and the new "Bobby Watson Fan" club.

Westmoor Wins NPL Cage Title

By JERRY LITRELL
Post Correspondent

There couldn't have been a better place or point in time for Westmoor High School to capture the 1973 North Peninsula League basketball championship.

Playing before a home court, partisan following, the Rams ended Serramonte's five-game win streak with a 63-42 win Wednesday. It was the Rams' eleventh-straight victory without a defeat, giving Westmoor a four-game lead with three to go.

If ever a schedule were made to hone a team for the upcoming playoffs, the Rams have it. They must finish against South San Francisco, Oceana and Terra Nova, all three still in the race for Shaughnessy positions.

"Even though we have the title secured there is no letting down for us now," commented Ram coach Antonio Giamonna. "If we play poorly against the next three teams, it gives them a psychological edge for the playoffs and the 11-0 mark until now means virtually nothing."

Westmoor's championship came via its win over the Regents, combined with El Camino's resounding defeat of Terra Nova, 72-35. Other conference play saw South San Francisco down Half Moon Bay, 62-52, and Oceana outshoot Jefferson 72-55.

Westmoor 63, S'monte 42
Serramonte tried a delay offense designed to pull Westmoor out of its zone defense. A rescue from bottomless quicksand would have been easier.

Ted Scott and Jerry McNeil fired away with deadly accuracy in the first half and the Rams stayed in their zone to pull up by nine at halftime. Scott, who got 22 points, went for six in the second quarter and McNeil added five as Westmoor opened up its biggest bulge.

El Camino 72, Terra Nova 35
Colt center Steve Kennedy foiled Terra Nova's defensive plans by scoring 25 points in the first half against a collapsing zone as El Camino got revenge for an earlier one-point loss to the Tigers.

It was rebounding and defense that won it for El Camino. Newly inserted starter Barry Nagel combined with Kennedy on the boards and the entire Colt squad shut off Terra Nova with only two points in the first quarter and nine by intermission. By then, Camino led 37-9.

Terra Nova, which won its first five games, now finds itself tied for second and only two games away from dropping out of the playoffs.

Oceana 72, Jefferson 55
Outside shooting by Javier Grandov and Mike Keough nullified Jefferson's attempted zone defense and helped the Sharks back into contention for a 45-point first half.

Grandov hit ten of his eleven points in the first quarter and Keough went for nine of his 15 in the second quarter to aid Oceana to a 14-point halftime lead. That shooting took Jeff out of its zone but all the Indians could get was an even exchange the rest of the way.

South City 62, HMB 52
South San Francisco's full-court press was its best offensive weapon as the Warriors stuttered and stammered before running to a second-half victory over last place Half Moon Bay.

Guard John McKeon drove the middle and keyed three interceptions while forward Rolf Athearn got baseline four times in the third period to bring the Warriors from a two-point halftime deficit to an eventual 12-point lead.

The playoff situation, aside from Westmoor, is far from decided. Oceana is making a serious bid for the final spot if one allows Terra Nova and El Camino the other two openings.

But as it appears now, South City has the edge for the final berth but also faces a tough finishing schedule.

The fourth playoff position could feature a team with a losing record.

Le Paeini Martial Arts

Space last week disallowed us from continuing a discourse on the Oriental martial arts, which had begun, you may remember, with a description of how some Thailand kick-boxers had wiped out Taiwan kung-fu experts in less than five minutes (what had been promoted as a "fight to the death").

This was gratifying to us because in years past we have contended that goal ring boxers and wrestlers and expert French foot fighters could destroy martial arts experts.

But our point here is not to ridicule those in the martial arts. We in fact are not and never have been against those who engage in that field of hand-to-hand combat. All we ever have protested is the teaching of such potentially dangerous "sport" in wholesale lots with little or no concern for the psychological make-up of trainees, and often no attempt by teachers to include in the teaching of the philosophical concepts behind the physical aspects of such combat — which is really the most important factor in the teaching of the martial arts.

We further contend, today, that in promoting such indiscriminate training, teachers of the martial arts may actually be doing harm to some students by injecting them with false feelings of indestructibility.

Knowing some of the basic rudiments of karate, for example, really isn't going to do a 90 pounder much good if he runs into a great 200 pound street fighter who never heard that karate guys are supposed to be dangerous. What the 90 pound karate "expert" should do in such a case is run. But if he's been convinced that a karate chop to the Adam's Apple, for example, is a panacea for all molestation, he's going to be surprised when he tries to lay such a blow on the street fighter and suddenly discovers that he can't reach that high, or can reach that high but misses.

WHAT INSTRUCTORS in the martial arts rarely explain to students that, just like in any endeavor, there are degrees of proficiency. And what one man may be able to make work for him with karate, another man might not be able to. Knowing a martial art is no good at all to anyone unless he becomes expert at it. Thus, a mediocre, lead-bottomed kung-fu man wouldn't stand a chance against a fine, well conditioned athlete who never took a formal lesson in self defense in his life.

Another thing that instructors often fail to mention to students is that things don't always work out in the streets exactly the way they work out in the gym.

One day last week we watched a cute little high school girl throwing big high school boys all over the place. But she had orchestrated every move.

"Now grab me from behind... now try to punch me with your right hand!... now make off you're going to rape me."

If you know what the other guy is going to do and when he's going to do it, you wouldn't need to know kung-fu. All you would have to say to your opponent is, "When you begin attacking me, spread your legs a little so I can kick you between them." And everybody knows that THAT will stop any male, even if a you know is the waltz.

We've always wondered what a judo expert would do if he were attacked by somebody stripped to the waist, with his body greased.

JUST TO clear up any misunderstandings... there is live fox hunting by the Los Altos Hunt Club, but at Paicines, Law Ranch, not Woodside.

The December, 1973, newsletter from the club, for instance, called November the "outstanding month so far in the annals of Los Altos live fox hunting."

The January schedule called for seven such hunts at Paicines, Law Ranch, with three drag hunts at Woodside. The newsletter, by the way, described the chase one fox gave the members:

"The fox circle back, crossing water for the second time, then lit out through newly ploughed fields, cattle foil and tractor exhaust fumes for the thicket of Cienga Road. Sharpened by the previous week's triumphs, however, hounds were not to be denied their reward and bowled the Red (fox) over in the open just as the sun burst through the fox. Six couple, including several new entry, were in on the kill."

BASEBALL NOTES:

Officially released statistics show that last year the Giants went from one of the worst pinch-hitting teams in baseball (in '72) to one of the best. They finished second in the NL only to the Dodgers' pinch-hitting BA of .288, just one percentage point behind (.287).

We read where Juan Marichal, in the American Airlines Golf Classic in San Juan last week, didn't allow a cut over his eye halt his bid for the team championship.

Despite the sock he received from a player taking a careless practice swing and the resultant headache everytime he bent over, Juan played on.

Had that happened during baseball season, he would have missed three starts. Wherein lie one's values?

Preps Wind Up Regular Season

There are few questions left to be answered as county prep basketball heads into its final week.

There is still one playoff spot to be determined in the North Peninsula League, but berths elsewhere are pretty well locked up.

It only remains for playoff teams to settle order of finish, to determine who will play who next week.

In the NPL tomorrow undefeated round-robin champ goes to Westmoor, South S.F. visits Oceana, Half Moon Bay hosts El Camino and Jefferson travels to Serramonte. All are 3:15 p.m. games.

In the Mid-Peninsula League round-robin champ Hillsdale puts a perfect record on the line at San Mateo, Burlingame is at Aragon and Mills at Capuchino, all 3:15 p.m. games.

Serra bopes to rebound from injury problems and a two-game loss streak in the

Last Playoff Spot Is Still Wide Open

Emphasis on winning has now shifted down three spots in the NPL standings as the final playoff position is still open to three teams.

Westmoor high's champion Rams, playing their first "non-crucial" remained undefeated with a 62-59 win over South San Francisco yesterday.

The Warriors lost gave new life to Serramonte and Oceana, both victors yesterday. Those three will vie in the upcoming final week for the fourth playoff position.

The Sharks rallied to defeat Half Moon Bay 52-48, Serramonte edged Terra Nova 42-41 and El Camino bested Jefferson 45-35.

Rams 62, SSF 59

Senior guard Rocky Guillory led a third-quarter out-break that gave Westmoor as much as a 14-point lead and from there it was a race against the clock as South City chipped away and came within one with 17 seconds left in the game.

The Warriors were playing without starting guard Frank Cesarz, out for the year after a chipped bone in his ankle (suffered in the HMB win Wednesday).

A lack of outside shooting and a drought from the forward positions proved fatal for the Warriors, now 6-6, and in dire straights.

South City trailed 59-50 when they made their final move which brought them to within one, 60-59 on Rolfe Athearn's baseline jumper. A crumpled bucket with 0:02 left by Jerry McNeil put it away.

Regents 42, Tigers 41
For the second straight game Serramonte employed a stall offense designed to pull its opponent out of a zone, but this time it was successful as the Regents won their sixth game in the last seven outings. Terra Nova has now lost four straight.

The Tigers were up by four in the third quarter but a layin by Ken Koch with 0:25 left in the game culminated a Regent rally which tied the game at 39-41.

After Serramonte scored Terra Nova's Bob Downing tied it again at 41-41 with a layin, but he fouled Tom McLaughlin with 0:11 left. The free throw missed, but Serramonte got the long rebound and Jerome Williams was fouled with 0:05 left.

He hit the first of a one-and-one, missed the second but Terra Nova's desperation 18-footer at the buzzer was wide.

Camino 45, Jeff 35
Free throw shooting provided the difference as El Camino connected on 21 of 23 attempts.

Forward Mike Jiggett hit nine of ten from the line in scoring 15 points to lead the Colts, now 8-4.

Oceana 52, HMB 48
Steve Broadway's three quick field goals in the third quarter allowed Oceana a come-from-behind rally to stay within striking distance of fourth place with a 5-7 record.

The Cougars, 1-11, used their height advantage throughout the first half to build up as much as a nine-point lead twice, but when the Sharks began running the Cougars were forced into ballhandling errors and Oceana managed to stay ahead by six the rest of the way.

Ace Scored At Peninsula

Dr. Gil Grainger proved the master of the 12th hole at the Peninsula Golf and Country Club recently when he scored a hole-in-one on the 150-yard, par-three hole with a four iron.

Witnessing the feat were Dr. Jack Ulrich, Dr. George Laird, Dr. Jerry Kenner and Stan Orrisch.

Serra Padres Make Playoffs

By MARK JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Health wasn't help enough Wednesday night for Serra High's basketball team as the Padres failed to cool off the hottest thing going in the West Catholic Athletic League.

Serra, back at full strength, with the returns of center Buzz Harnett and forward Ron Jackson from injuries, fell anyway to St. Francis, 49-46, in Mountain View.

The Lancers, tied with Rioridan (both 8-2) for the WCAL's first spot, won its seventh game in a row.

The Padres, in fourth at 6-4, still officially clinched a playoff spot with fifth spot Sacred Heart's loss to Rioridan.

Jackson and Harnett, who combined for 32 points, teamed with John Caselli to lead Serra to an eight point lead at halftime. The Padres controlled much of the first half action, particularly on the boards.

Serra, however, came out cold the second half and never warmed up, although Jackson hit a hot streak at the end of the third quarter and personally sent the Padres into the last quarter with a five point margin.

St. Francis finally took the lead for good with 2:18 to go in the game at 47-46 on a flip shot by Keith Childs. Twenty-six seconds earlier the Padres had missed two free throws that would have given them a three point advantage.

After a trade of missed shots, SF got possession with under a minute to go. With 17 seconds left, Harnett made a steal that was nullified on a controversial traveling call. Childs added two more free throws with ten seconds to go.

"We stopped looking inside the second half," said Newell. "That's where our strength is and we didn't go to it. But no one thing caused the loss. There were breakdowns at both ends."

The Padres went 14-25 from the floor in the first half, then slumped to 6-23 in the second to go with some costly turnovers.

St. Andrew's Handles PAL

Richard Rodgers led the St. Andrews "A" team's very tough defense as his team defeated PAL 33-16 in the eighth grade Western Division Boy's Basketball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

Mark Navarro chipped in 14 points for the victors. OLPH, behind the nine points of Jerome Hasson and seven points of Dana Ynostroza, edged St. Andrews "B" 31-29. Hunts defeated OLM 48-42 in an overtime game to keep its playoff hopes alive.

In the Eastern Division, LBVA moved into a tie for second place with a 33-8 victory over OLM Chargers behind the 12 points of Paul Strazullo. The PAL Bucs appear to have the fourth playoff spot to themselves with a 34-13 triumph over St. Thomas More Saints.

LBVA Warriors moved into a first place tie in the seventh grade Western with a 47-24 victory over Holy Angels. Steve Botta tallied 14 for the Holy Angels while Clark Bloom scored 13 for the Warriors. OLM edged SAL 34-32 to remain in the fourth playoff spot. Bob Christman scored 13 for SAL while Kevin Mahoney hit for 11 for OLM. PAL defeated St. Andrews 56-40 behind the double-barreled scoring of Greg Taylor and Noel Farr with their 27 and 22 points respectively.

OLM Chiefs dealt OLPH Warriors their first loss with a 41-23 setback. Rich Restivo scored 15 for the victors, while Mark Coleman hit for 10 for OLPH. SAL Buckeyes remained in second place with a 29-19 victory over PAL Panthers. Ron Hosea led the way for SAL with 11 points with Anthony Hale tallying eight for PAL. St. Andrews edged St. Thomas More 19-13 to keep up their hopes of a possible playoff spot.

OLM Shockers remained in a first place tie with a 21-16 edging of St. Thomas More in the sixth grade Eastern. SAL remained tied also with a 33-7 drubbing of Holy Angels. St. Andrews assured themselves of a playoff berth with a 17-0 victory over PAL Bullets.

OLM Warriors remained undefeated in the fifth grade Western with a 28-26 overtime victory over Holy Angels Snakes. Tom Feeney and Pat McGee tallied 10 for OLM while Chris Chiappair led the Snakes' attack with 12 points. St. Andrews Scots moved into a three-way tie for second with a 3-15 victory over OLPH Orioles.

Ward Donnelly was the big gun for the Scots with 13 points while Tim Cross scored five for the Orioles. PAL Cougars, behind Bobby Mascheroni's eight points, defeated SAL 24-17. Terry Lewis scored eight for SAL.

LBVA kept its sole possession of first place in the fifth grade Eastern with a 21-14 triumph over OLM. Mike Sargenti and Robert Obregon both tallied eight for LBVA while Tom Ortega scored six for OLM.

St. Thomas More Saints remained in second place with an 18-11 conquering of SAL Superstars. Vick Woodlief and Mark Powers both hit for six points for the Saints, while Mike Pugh scored 11 for SAL. St. Andrews Greys defeated St. Andrews Scots 24-5. Clay Regan and Joe Trautner both scored six for the Greys, while Pat Lindstrom scored three for the Scots.

St. Andrews Scots in the fourth grade Western kept its unblemished slate intact with an 11-6 edging of SAL Leopards. SAL Devils remained in second place with an 18-8 triumph over St. Thomas More Saints. LBVA Cougars kept pace in second place also with a 14-8 victory over PAL Tigers.

The Scotties dealt OLM its first loss in the fourth grade Eastern with a 12-9 edging. OLPH Chargers got back on the winning ways with a 16-0 victory over St. Thomas More "Saints 32."

Oaks Dazzle Skyline; Canada Gets Revenge

"I sure wish more people could see them play," said Skyline College basketball coach Walt Rilliet Wednesday night after his team had lost to "them," Menlo, 82-56. Menlo, undefeated in the Coast Conference, held normally hot-shooting Skyline to 17 first-half points, controlled the boards, and stopped the Trojans cold inside.

In other community college action Wednesday night, Canada came back from a 37-31 halftime deficit to beat host Contra Costa 75-67, sparked by Mickey Brown's 30-point performance.

Menlo is thinking hard about Saturday night's tilt with visiting Hartnell. "We have got to beat Hartnell to have a chance at the title," said Menlo coach Bud Presley. "We've beaten them once. But the other two teams with a chance to beat them couldn't, and we'll have to face those teams on the road after Hartnell."

Skyline came out of its zone Wednesday night and pressed slower Menlo with a man-to-man, but Menlo had already grabbed a commanding advantage and went on to lead at the half, 39-17. "They've got to be as fine an outside shooting team as I've seen," said Presley. "But we gave them nothing inside and we screened off well on the board. We played with intensity."

Rilliet agreed. "Intensity, verve... that's what it's all about. What a team."

Canada had lost to Contra Costa twice earlier this season, in overtime on both occasions. And Contra Costa zipped to an early 20-4 lead.

But Canada tied the score by scoring the first six points of the second half, then moved 15 ahead and stayed on top with good rebounding and tight defense — which led to a 44-30 second-half advantage.

Brown scored 20 of his points in the second half. Center Guy Kinsley went 6-6 from the floor in the second half and Ronnie Goerss came off the bench to hit three for three and collect three rebounds.

Bob Preston and Gary Labelle scored 21 and 15 points respectively, as Sun Valley Dairy crushed Annuzzi Concreters 74-57. Ralph Sand paced Annuzzi with 14 points.

Vic Washington Sued for Divorce

The wife of 49er running back Vic Washington has filed suit in Superior Court at Redwood City for dissolution of their 6½-year marriage.

In the petition for dissolution, Mrs. Jacqueline D. Washington states that the couple were married Aug. 26, 1967, in Philadelphia and separated Jan. 31, 1974.

Mrs. Washington is asking for custody of the couple's daughter, Theresa, 4, plus support for herself and the youngster.

Washington, 27, was drafted by the 49ers in 1970

following his graduation from the University of Wyoming.

Redwood City attorney James A. Thompson who is representing Mrs. Washington declined to talk to the press concerning any aspect of the divorce action. California law specifies only "irreconcilable differences" in filing a petition for dissolution of marriage.

N. County Swimmers Win Medals

Two North Peninsula Swim Team members placed in eight events at the Mountain View Dolphins swim meet recently.

Mary Ann Soto, of South San Francisco, won two "A" medals, one in the 100-yard individual medley and the other in the 200 individual medley. Miss Soto also placed in the following events for the 10 and under girls: 50-yard butterfly, third place; 100 yard butterfly, sixth place; 100 yard backstroke, sixth place.

John Alvarado, an eight and under swimmer, received his "A" medal in the 50-yard breaststroke taking first place. He also placed second in the 50-yard freestyle and fourth in the 50-yard butterfly.

Other team members participating in the event were Annette Segol, Richard Segol and Gina Marcelli.

The North Peninsula Swim Club now is conducting tryouts for its competition swim team. Those interested are asked to call 755-8536.

Jeff Grapplers Win Finals

Jefferson High easily captured the NPL Wrestling Finals Saturday at Westmoor High.

The Indians scored 102½ points compared to Terra Nova's 82½ and Westmoor's 75½. But in the NPL, the finals are just a placing tourney only and have no bearing on the championship. Terra Nova is the NPL champ because of its win over Jefferson earlier this month.

The top three placers in the NPL now go on to the Region I Finals at Jefferson Saturday. Also on hand will be the top four from the SCVAL.

TERRA NOVA PLACERS
95 — Gil Almonte (3rd, record 1-1); 103 — Bob Olague (3rd, record 3-1); 120 — Ron Strickland (2nd, record 3-1); Lost finals 11-3 to Del Paro (Jeff); 133 — Chris Gauger (2nd, record 3-1); Lost finals 11-2 to Vargas (Jeff); 138 — Greg Martin (1st, record 3-0); Pinned Huertas (Jeff) in finals; Won all three matches on pins; 145 — David Kahn (2nd, record 2-1); Lost in finals 8-5 to Makros (West); 165 — Glen Grissom (1st, record 3-0); Won final by pin over Hagleros (HMS); won two of his matches by pin UNL — Dave Cocks (3rd, record 2-1)

Bridge Decision Due

By FRANK LAPIERRE
A decision on whether to grant a permit for construction of a new $57 million Dumbarton Bridge was expected to be made by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission Feb. 21 following the last of a series of public hearings on the issue in San Francisco Thursday.

The span would parallel the present Dumbarton Bridge structure and would include several new feeder highways from both sides of the bay.

The majority of those appearing before the BCDC hearings, held in the State Building Thursday, opposed construction of the bridge.

Many pointed out the energy crises being experienced would probably negate the need for a larger bridge. Others felt increased traffic generated by the bridge — especially in cities along the west side of the Bay — would be detrimental and a safety hazard.

Mrs. J. T. Rushmore, a critic of the bridge project, said the proposed bridge could jeopardize wild life and fish in the area and felt the monies could better be spent for mass transit in San Mateo County.

Mrs. Rushmore said the present Dumbarton Bridge appeared to be "structurally sound" and she suggested mini-buses and car pooling between the east and west bay might be the answer to solving any traffic problems now encountered on the span.

Another opponent, Harriet Munday, said "if the bridge must be built it should be built on pilings" rather than on filled lands.

Plans call for the four lane span to be built on fill consuming 3 1/2 acres of Bay fill, two acres of managed wet lands, 53 acres of salt ponds, and six acres of marshlands.

Mrs. Munday asked if the access roads to the bridge "will also go through the salt ponds?"

And she questioned the feasibility of a pedestrian lane across the bridge noting "it is an awfully long walk indeed."

Atherton City Mgr. Jack Farrell said his community had misgivings on the bridge, including traffic plans which would jam two lanes coming off the bridge into one lane deadending at Middlefield Road.

Farrell also questioned the wisdom in filling Bay lands when he had been informed the State acquired a 90-foot-wide strip for bridge access almost two decades ago.

This access strip is east of Bayshore Freeway, he said. The Toll Bridge Authority's new chief engineer, John Kozak, said he would investigate whether this access road was available for use or not.

Kozak, who said he had received assurances from the State Highway Department on funding for the bridge, explained that access roads in the west bay, except for Willow Road which is state owned, will come from toll monies collected.

This would be on road improvements for Marsh and University Avenues.

After meeting stiff resistance from Palo Alto officials, plans for expanding the Embarcadero Road through that community were dropped, it was explained.

Farrell and two other residents of Atherton vowed they would fight any attempts to the larger roads into their community.

They fear increased traffic loads on the bridge will stimulate development in the west bay — development they are not prepared to accept, they said.

Noting that the family car "is going the way of the Dodo bird, soon to be extinct," Ralph Poyner of Menlo Park, a member of the "Citizens Against Willow Road Expressway," charged the State now owns Willow Road to the Bayshore "but they want to push it through to (route) 280 and over to the coast."

He asked the BCDC Commissioners to cut Willow Road out of the project plans.

Poyner said perhaps East Palo Alto, which wants a road, should get the road instead.

"If you want to build something," Poyner said, "build rapid transit."

State Senator Arlen Gregorio, taking the side of opponents in the issue, in a letter read to the Commission, asked the matter be delayed at least long enough to evaluate the effect of the energy crises and long range transportation usage patterns.

Rep. Ryan to Speak

The San Mateo County Development Association has invited industrial and business leaders of San Mateo County and the Bay Area to a special meeting to hear a report from Rep. Leo

J. Ryan (D-San Mateo) on his recent tours of the Middle East.

The special meeting will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Hyatt House Hotel in Burlingame.

Ice Rink Planned

Foster City is very close to having the largest and most modern ice arena in the west bay.

The city Planning Commission Thursday night approved a use permit for "Ice World," a regulation hockey-sized arena with 1,500 permanent seats and a restaurant on 7.57 acres fronting on Foster City and East Hillsdale boulevards.

This was the last official hurdle for the project, which hasn't had a price tag put on it publicly yet by its prospective builder, Muiac Corp. of San Mateo.

But the drawings and a model of the arena and secondary building will be displayed to the city council probably Monday night.

Among the 14 conditions also approved by the Planning Commission Thursday was a one-year time limit to get construction started.

Designer John Allen displayed some new drawings showing smoother lines and attempting to cover what the commissioners in two prior hearings have considered its overwhelming mass.

The commissioners complimented Allen for blending the shapes of the arena, a chopped pyramid, and secondary building, an inverted pyramid. The two would be joined at a common wall and a glassed-in canopy extended to the east as the main entrance.

The higher berm (curb) on at the base of the walls, textured concrete and the "folding truss" border around the arena roof enclosing a space frame canopy are used to "detract from the mass of the building," Planning Director Jack Rogoway said in his staff report.

The secondary building would house the restaurant, a bar and the auxiliary rooms of the arena, such as skate rentals.

Rogoway, Assistant City Engineer Raymond Reed, and Police Capt. John Dineen had studied the traffic concerns of the commission also. Rogoway reported, and had come up with some ideas.

Based on a full house of 2780 persons, including those on folding seats within the arena for a theater-type show or convention, and all 409 parking spaces full, the staff said the best ingress-egress points would be one on Foster City Boulevard next to Saxe, one off Triton Avenue on the north, and two on a Pilgrim Drive extension on the east.

Police officers would direct traffic at its peak at Foster City and Triton and East Hillsdale Boulevard and Pilgrim. Dineen asked that his department be given 30 days notice of expected full houses so it can plan accordingly.

Commissioners Robert Hong, Lee Dozier, Mrs. Aysun Kundupoglu and Chairman Roger Chinn were unanimous on Commissioner Milt King's motion to approve.

Pioneer 90, Dies

One of South San Francisco's leading pioneers and civic leaders, B. J. (Battista) Rodondi, died Tuesday at the age of 90, in St. Francis Convalescent Hospital in Daly City.

Funeral services were held today from Garden Chapel in South San Francisco.

He founded the firm of B. J. Rodondi & Sons, Real Estate and Insurance, located at 336 Grand Ave.

Rodondi was a former trustee of the South San Francisco Unified School District, past president of the South San Francisco Merchants' Association, first chairman of the Downtown Parking Commission, first chairman of the All Souls School Fund Drive, former member of the San Mateo County Grand Jury, and was once named Young Men's Institute "man of the year."

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Druids, North San Mateo County Board of Realtors, San Mateo County Insurance Agents' Association, and Italian American Citizens' Club.

A native of Prescia, Italy, he had resided in South San Francisco 65 years.

Survivors include his wife, Francesca; four sons, South San Francisco City Clerk Arthur Rodondi, Edward Rodondi of South San Francisco, Joseph Rodondi of San Carlos, and J. B. Rodondi Jr. of Palo Alto; two daughters, Olga Viti of Reno and Rosemarie Gregori of Burlingame; 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection was offered today at All Souls Catholic Church. Contributions to All Souls Building Fund or El Retiro Retreat House are preferred by the family.

THE RETURN of the three-piece suit has made the pocket watch one of the hottest fashion jewelry accessories for men. Here is popular Baylor pocket watch, from contemporary pocket watch collection of Zale Jewelers. It features an engraved case and 17 jewel movement.

The Pocket Watch For Men Returns

An old friend — the pocket watch — is back... with more flair than ever.

"The pocket watch has returned as one of the most visible fashion jewelry items for men," according to Selwyn Leeds, president of Zale Jewelers.

"A cherished companion of our grandfathers, the pocket watch was more than simply a functional time-piece. It also reflected the personality of the man who wore it, and was treasured as an heirloom to be handed from father to son.

With the return of the three-piece suit to the fashion scene and the growing mood of nostalgia to the country, the pocket watch, available at affordable prices, has had a meteoric resurgence in popularity," Leeds observed.

Zale offers a collection of pocket watches including one favorite for the executive, the Baylor with an engraved case and 17-jewel movement.

The watch is as stylish as the three-piece suit itself. Just a touch of the stem and presto, the covering case opens to reveal the classic, easy to read face.

Hours are designated by slender Roman numerals, and long thin black hands point the time on the gleaming white dial. A sweeping second hand helps the busy executive split the minutes into seconds.

A POSTER exhibit of yesterday's Hollywood is now yesterday's Hollywood is Shopping Center in San Bruno. The exhibit, presented by Peoples Gallery, features promotional posters which showcase twenty of the outstanding hit movies released between 1914 and 1942. Pictured above are "Gone With The Wind" starring Clark Gable and "Beau Geste" with Gary Cooper.

Classic Movie Posters on 'Triosks' at Tanfo Center

"Beau Geste," starring Gary Cooper, and "Gone With The Wind," with Clark Gable, are just two of the box office hits from 1939 Hollywood that thrilled movie-going audiences everywhere.

People's Gallery presents a "Classic Movie Poster" exhibit on the mall at Tanforan Park Shopping Center in San Bruno.

Twenty different posters displayed throughout the mall include: Errol Flynn in "Sea Hawk," Humphrey Bogart, "King of the Underworld," Jean Harlow, "Saratoga," and Charlie Chaplin "Cruel, Cruel Love."

Movies depicted range from 1914 to 1942. To enjoy seeing an exhibit that reflects an era when major studio premieres came complete with long black limousines and personal appearances by movie stars.

People's Gallery is a new concept in out-of-home graphics wherein the works of famous fine artists and various graphics of a popular nature are brought "to" the people.

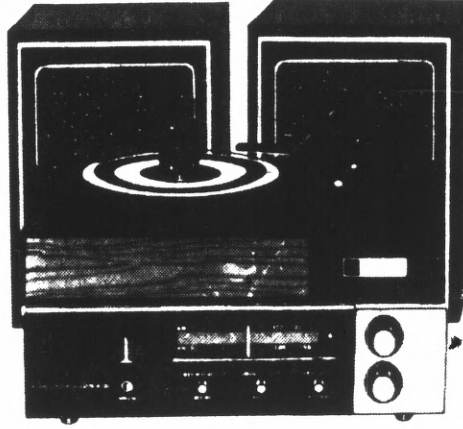

The posters are displayed on especially designed three-sided structures called "triosks."

Cancer unit hears talk on quackery

Mrs. Helene Brown, one of the foremost authorities on cancer quackery and a member of the California State Committee on Quackery, spoke at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the San Mateo County unit of the American Cancer Society last week.

Mrs. Brown is the immediate past president of the California Division of the Cancer Society.

California has the dubious honor of being the "cancer quackery capital of the world," noted Mrs. Brown.

"Why? No one seems to really know." Many theories have been offered, she said, one being that Californians are willing to spend more money on "quick" solutions to health problems.

Health spa's are flourishing business in the State, and another theory is the trend toward "getting back to nature" through health foods and special diets.

Mrs. Brown pointed out that there are presently innumerable books that can be purchased at health food stores that actually claim to cure cancer through "juice therapy". One such book advocates a carrot-celery-spinach-apple concoction that will "eliminate tumors and prevent cancer."

One of the most controversial drugs that has gained public attention is Laetrile. Mrs. Brown pointed out that the drug has been around since 1920 and not one cured cancer case has been documented to substantiate claims by the proponents of the drug.

Laetrile is a derivative of apricot pits and is currently being sold as Vitamin B-17.

"There is no such thing as Vitamin B-17," stressed Mrs. Brown, "yet the manufacturer is making vast fortunes by claiming that cancer patients will live longer, feel better and that the substance will even prevent cancer."

Since 1963 the California State Department of Health has been most receptive to the making of studies on Laetrile, but its efforts in this direction have been hampered by failure of Laetrile proponents to supply verified case histories for examination. The State Department of Health has evidence of Laetrile's ineffectiveness when used on cancer patients.

Tanforan Expansion Is Begun

Tanforan Park Shopping Center has begun an expansion program which will include construction of four United Artist Theaters below ground level.

The upper level will house more mall shops, a cocktail lounge and a dinner house.

Johnson & Mapes of Palo Alto are the general contractors for the construction of Tanforan's third phase.

The United Artist Theaters will be connected to the upper mall level by two double width escalators as well as a wide stairway. Each of three auditoriums will seat 300 movie patrons with the fourth seating 500.

While the expansion is under way, many Tanforan shoppers may find parking a little tight on the El Camino side of the center. According to mall manager Frank Haggerty there is more than ample parking behind the Penney's and Emporium stores.

"The strange thing about our back parking is the fact that it is much closer to the store and covered, yet people have not caught on to this fact," Haggerty said. "We have placed many directional signs out front and as soon as customers find how convenient our deck parking is, they may never park out front again."

None of the 97 stores will be closed during construction, and there is a bridge being built to open the upper main mall during this period.

Completion is scheduled for late this year.

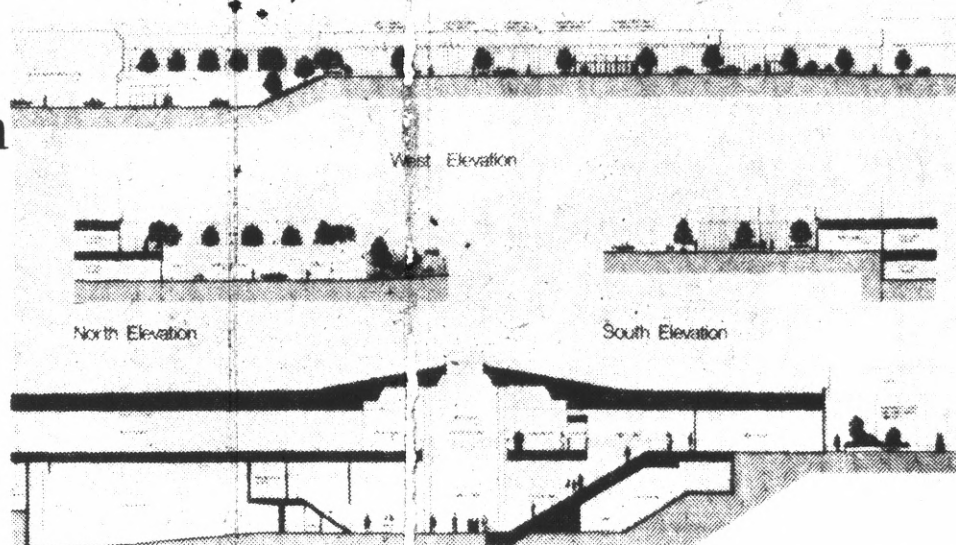

Market and Research Firm Opens

Marketing & Research Counselors, Inc. have opened up their Northern California offices at Tanforan Park Shopping Center.

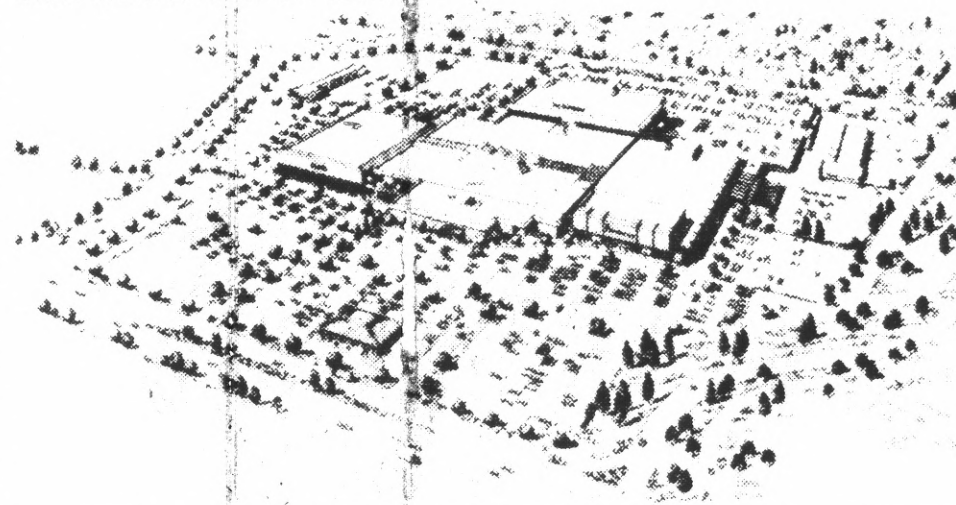

The Texas-based research firm develops and conducts market surveys for manufacturers, food companies and retail outlets from across the United States and Canada.

According to Gregg Hupp, North California district supervisor for MARC, "The people we are trying to reach for their opinions are already coming to the shopping center and we found Tanforan to be the best centrally located, with the widest range of customer oriented stores."

"We are able to talk to people from urban, suburban and rural all in the same period at Tanforan. Another advantage we have is the ability to computerize every aspect of our market studies realizing a greater in-depth program for our customers."

THIS IS an architect's conception of addition to Tanforan Shopping Center, now under construction in San Bruno.

Tanfo Officials Tell of Energy Cutbacks

Tanforan Park Shopping Center has announced first results of its voluntary energy consumption cutback.

During November, Tanforan reduced the power usage by over 600,000 kilowatt hours.

According to Pacific Gas & Electric, this would be enough saving to light 1000 homes for a 30 day period or one home for 1000 months.

Hap Smith, developer of Tanforan Park, said he was joining with thousands of other shopping centers across the country in instituting power saving measures on the mall, in stores and in parking lots.

"It's up to all of us to conserve energy," Smith said.

"As the new main streets of America, shopping centers have a special role in helping government to solve our energy crises."

The nationwide program of voluntary compliance launched by the International Council of Shopping Centers is expected to achieve a one-fifth to one-third reduction in energy consumption at thousands of centers from coast to coast. To aid centers like Tanforan to make possible greater reductions in energy use, the ICSC has provided a checklist of 62 power-saving suggestions.

The tips have been compiled from interviews with shopping center managers, retailers, consulting engineers, utility companies and associations active in the energy field.
